

Iceland Girl Named World's Beauty Queen

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—The most beautiful girl in the world — said a panel of judges here — is a Scandinavian beauty with red-blond hair, a secret love, and a name no one can pronounce.

Meet Miss International Beauty of 1964: 20-year-old Gudrun Bjarnadottir.

Much to her surprise, the exquisite Miss Iceland took the international beauty title away from 86 other girls from all over the world.

An "Easy" Name

Her surprise was genuine, too. She didn't think she had won, at first, because she couldn't understand the way the master of ceremonies, a actor Lorne Green, said her name when he pronounced her the winner.

"It's really an easy name," she says, in nearly fluent English. It is, the way she says it — swiftly, like a cascade of pebbles falling into an Icelandic fjord.

A village of 800 in a treeless valley in Iceland is the unlikely hometown of the tall, statuesque girl with a 38-23-38 figure, the poise of a princess and sparkling grey-green eyes.

She has the fresh, dewy-eyed look of an unspoiled country girl — yet she came here, she says, from a career as a Paris fashion model.

Runnerup From Miami

She has secrets, too.

"Yes, I have a boy friend," she admitted. She described him in flowing Icelandic to her hostess, Alva Swanson. "She means she loves him," said Mrs. Swanson, a former Icelandic herself. "I love him," said Gudrun.

What's his name?

"You just find out," she said mischievously.

She won the contest last night over 14 other finalists as the fourth international beauty spectacular drew to a close. It was nationally televised.

Runners-up in order were Miss England, Diana Westbury, 19, of Derbyshire; Miss Austria, Xenia Doppler, 19, of Vienna; Miss American Beauty, Joyce Bryan, 19, of Miami, Fla.; Miss Korea, Yoo-Mi Choi, 20, of Soon Chun City.

Sailboat Upsets; Body Recovered In Higgins Lake

ROSCOMMON (AP)—The body of Parker Friselle, well-known Michigan broadcasting executive, was recovered in 40 feet of water in nearby Higgins Lake Friday.

Friselle, 49, drowned Wednesday night when his sailboat overturned. State police skin divers found the body about a mile from shore.

Friselle was a member of the board of Midland Mid-State Broadcasting Corp. and was director of market research for Dow Chemical Co. at Midland.

Test Ban Treaty Going To Senate Within 2 Weeks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright says his foreign relations committee should be ready within two weeks to send the limited nuclear test ban treaty to the Senate floor.

The Arkansas Democrat predicts overwhelming ratification of the ban on all but underground blasts—perhaps with fewer than 20 votes in opposition.

Fulbright made this forecast Friday after John A. McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, told the committee he favors ratification and regards the treaty as compatible with national security.

Earlier, Fulbright had said the vote might be 80-20 in favor of the pact—well over the required two-thirds majority. McCone's endorsement probably reduced the opposition further, Fulbright told newsmen.

McCone's secret testimony rounded out the first week of committee hearings. Members of the Senate Armed Services Committee and senators who serve on the joint Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee have been sitting in.

The armed services group has asked Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara for a statement setting forth how safeguards urged by the Joint Chiefs of Staff are to be carried out. Fulbright said he does not expect this to delay action by his committee.

McNamara has given the pact his blessing, and the military chiefs have endorsed it provided the ban is accompanied by certain safeguards to reduce what they term disadvantages and risks.

These safeguards include an aggressive program for nuclear weapons development through underground tests, maintenance of modern nuclear laboratory facilities, a readiness to resume atmospheric testing promptly should the Soviet Union abrogate the treaty and improvement of techniques to detect violations.

'Dead' Satellites Are Back To Life

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP)—Are gremlins in space who tamper with satellites and then put them back in working order again?

That's the only explanation two scientists have for the mysterious blackout and sudden rejuvenation of equipment on four U. S. Satellites in the last year.

The mystery was underlined this week when, within three days, it was announced that two of the satellites—the ANNA geodetic sphere and the Telstar 2 communications package—had come back to life.

Scientists closely connected with each program, here for a satellite conference, were asked their opinion of the celestial goings-on.

Richard B. Kershner of the Applied Physics Laboratory, Johns Hopkins University, which developed ANNA, reported that after two months of inactivity, ANNA's four flashing lights inexplicably resumed flashing.

"We have no explanation for the lights coming back on," Kershner said. "We don't like to believe in space gremlins, but we've reached the point where that's as good an explanation as any. They're working beautifully now, and we're thankful."

Gremlins, imaginary creatures dreamed up by the servicemen of World War II, were blamed for anything that went wrong for an unexplained reason.

A storm centered in northern lower Michigan combined with a cold front to cause the tornadoic winds, weather bureau officials said.

Other portions of the Midwest received rainfall, but the flanking sectors of the country enjoyed a dry, sunny day.

One inch of hail covered the ground in Lake Geneva, Wis. Rainfall was heaviest in the upper Great Lakes region. Madison, Wis., reported 1.25 inches in a six-hour period.

Venezuela Holds Ex-Dictator For Taking Millions

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Ex-dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez was held in a luxury cell of Venezuela's main penitentiary today, awaiting trial on charges of embezzling millions during his term in office.

With the dubious distinction of being the first former chief of state extradited from the United States, Perez Jimenez was flown by chartered plane from Miami, Fla., to a heavily guarded Venezuelan air force base on Friday.

Surrounded by detectives in eight patrol cars and national guardsmen in three trucks, he was sped to the prison at San Juan de los Morros, 50 miles southwest of Caracas.

Permitted under Venezuelan law to enjoy any prison comforts he can pay for, Perez Jimenez had a special, air-conditioned, isolated cell equipped with a television set waiting for him.

In a recent court suit in Miami, it was alleged that the former dictator was worth at least $700 million.

President Romulo Betancourt, who had sought since 1959 to get Perez Jimenez extradited, claims that during the ex-dictator's term in office, from December 1952 to January 1958, he stole at least $13 million and that many more embezzlements may show up.

Wife Under Sedation

Perez Jimenez lived in a Miami Beach villa after he left Venezuela until his arrest and transfer to the Dade County, Fla., jail eight months ago. He was held there in a 6-by-10-foot solitary confinement cell. Justice Arthur Goldberg of the U. S. Supreme Court cleared the way for extradition by turning down Perez Jimenez' appeal for a stay as being without merit.

The extradition move was taken under a treaty signed by Venezuela and the United States in 1922. The pudgy 49-year-old politician smiled wanly as he entered the plane.

He showed no emotion as he entered the penitentiary.

His wife Flor, shaken by the development, remained in the mansion at Miami under sedation.

Fire Kills Six In Niagara, Wis.

NIAGARA, Wis. (AP) — Five members of a Niagara family and a nine-year-old neighbor girl died today in a fire in this Wisconsin community, just over the Michigan state line.

Killed were Howard Comstock; his wife, Margie, and three of their four children, Paula, 15; Christine, 10, and Peter, 7. Mary Joe Schell thought, 9, who was spending the night with the Comstocks, also died.

Police said all six apparently died of suffocation. Their bodies were found in upstairs bedrooms in the Comstocks' two-story frame home. Cause of the blaze was not immediately determined.

The only surviving member of the Comstock family, 19-year-old Robert, was away from home for the night.

Speeding Doctor Beaten By Stork

OWOSSO (AP)—The baby was born before Dr. Richard A. Morris could arrive at the hospital, but it wasn't because the doctor wasn't hurrying, police said.

They said the Durand physician collected four traffic tickets en route to the hospital and was going so fast when he arrived that he overshot the hospital's driveway.

Police said Dr. Morris also was found to be carrying no driver's license.

Three Men Shot As Spies In Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — Cuban authorities announced today the execution of three men officially described as agents of the U. S. Central Intelligence Agency.

A firing squad was reported to have shot down Rolando Mateos Paz, Manuel Marrero Castillo and his brother Francisco Marrero Castillo at dawn Friday in Las Villas province, in central Cuba.

The site of the execution was not specified.

In Washington, the State Department declined to comment. There also was no comment from the CIA.

The announcement, carried by the Havana press and radio, said a revolutionary court convicted the three of being members of an infiltration group that landed in Cuba July 22 carrying CIA instructions on sabotage.

Ford Co. Strike To Idle 10,000

CHICAGO HEIGHTS, Ill. (AP) — A strike at the Ford Motor Co. stamping plant by 3,750 union production workers will cause layoffs of nearly 10,000 workers in three other states.

Ford said Friday night that the strike, begun by United Auto Workers International Union, local 538, at midnight Thursday, would idle workers in Michigan, Indiana and Ohio, effective Monday.

The Chicago Heights plant, shut down by the second walkout in three months, supplies body panels for all Ford passenger cars lines except Lincoln Continental.

Ford spokesmen in Detroit and Chicago said layoffs of several thousand more employees would be necessary later in the week if the strike continues.

Airman Praises Soviet Rescuers

OTIS AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP)—The U. S. government and an American airman had praise today for Soviet fishermen who rescued the flier 87 miles off Cape Cod.

Cap. Hugh Lavallee, 29, of the Massachusetts National Guard, parachuted 20,000 feet from his disabled fighter plane on Friday and was rescued by the crew of a Soviet fishing vessel.

"They were extremely friendly," Lavallee said. "No one spoke English fluently, but I was able to communicate with them. They all shook my hand several times and kept saying 'Peace, I just smiled and thanked them.'"

Rear Adm. Chester L. Harding, commander of the 1st Coast Guard District, sent a message to the rescue ship, Johannes Ware, reading in part: "Your prompt action... is greatly appreciated."

Lavallee, a Springfield, Mass., insurance man in civilian life, dropped to the calm, sunlit ocean in an area where an estimated 300 Soviet vessels were fishing.

The Johannes Ware was alerted to Lavallee's plight by other American fliers. A motor launch was sent three-quarters of a mile to where the captain was on an inflated rubber boat.

The American was brought back to the Soviet ship, where a doctor took stitches in Lavallee's cut chin and swabbed bruises around his eyes.

A crewman doffed his clothes and gave them to Lavallee in place of his drenched uniform.

A U. S. Coast Guard helicopter hauled Lavallee from the deck of the big Soviet ship and brought him to Otis AFB for further treatment.

Hare Will Govern State For 5 Days

LANSING (AP)—Michigan will have a new governor next week—but just for five days.

While Gov. Romney officially is on vacation and Lt. Gov. T. John Lesinski is in Hawaii, Secretary of State James Hare will take over chief executive duties. Lesinski is due to return Aug. 24.

Ferry To Okinawa Sinks With 240 Aboard; 185 Saved

NAHA, Okinawa (AP)—A ferry boat believed carrying as many as 240 persons capsized and sank off Okinawa today and 185 persons were reported rescued in an intense air-sea operation.

Two persons were known dead and the remainder were missing. Authorities here said the vessel's manifest listed 199 passengers and crewmen, but Okinawa police reports had boarded the ferry just before departure and were not carried on the manifest.

The rescue included four American servicemen and officials said information presently available indicated they were the only Americans aboard the ferry.

Twenty-nine persons were rescued from waters off an island by U. S. military helicopters and another 156 persons were picked up by surface craft, authorities said.

The ferry, the 300-ton Midori Maru, had left Naha's Tomari port at 11 a.m. local time heading for Kumejima Island, 50 miles to the west. The ferry was said to have capsized about 12:05 p.m., but first word of the sinking did not reach Naha until about 5 p.m.

U. S. military aircraft, including helicopters, joined fishing boats in the rescue operation.

Local authorities said they had the last names of Brinkwater, Ostermiller, Brancroft and Nixon for the four American servicemen rescued. They said they had no first names or hometowns immediately.

British Police Ask Aid In Hunt For 7 Million Loot

LONDON (AP) — Police asked hikers and picnickers today to join a mammoth weekend treasure hunt for the rest of the $7 million loot from Britain's great train robbery.

Any hole found dug in the countryside, for example, should be reported, the police said.

The appeal came after the discovery Friday of four discarded bags stuffed with $282,520 in bank notes in a wooded Surrey beauty spot.

The find, bringing the total amount recovered so far to $678,179, strengthened a police theory that the gang which pounced with such precision on the Glasgow-London mail train 10 days ago now is panicking.

Five persons have been arrested and charged with minor roles in the robbery, Scotland Yard pressed the hunt for the big shot.

The police, coast guard and navy kept a special watch on the English Channel in case any gang member attempted to slip to the Continent.

Fisherman, 73, Lost For 8 Days

TIMAGAMI, Ont. (AP) — Carl Mosher, a 73-year-old fisherman from Danville, Mich., survived eight days of cold, hunger and mosquitoes alone in the bush near here. Searchers found him Friday huddled in a makeshift lean-to.

"He was very spry for his condition and he had passed the hunger stage," constable Neil Smith said.

A fishing companion reported Mosher missing after they became separated in dense country Aug. 8. Mosher had matches, but dampness made them useless. He crawled in the lean-to shield himself from cold and rain.

The constable said he and other searchers "must have passed within 20 feet of the spot about a dozen times."

He said Mosher was calm when found but broke down when he realized he had been saved.

Break Sighted In Dispute Over Firemen's Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rail negotiations inched forward today, spurred by conditional union acceptance of a Labor Department proposal for arbitration of the two key issues in the prolonged work rules dispute.

The unions' provisional acceptance on Friday of Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz' proposal — to which the carriers agreed without reservation—signaled a possible major breakthrough in the deadlock that threatens to produce a nationwide rail strike Aug. 29.

But Wirtz declared, "We're by no means home," and J. E. Wolfe, chief negotiator for the railroads, viewed the unions' conditions as amounting to rejection of the secretary's plan.

Situation Critical
Wolfe said, however, that attorneys for the carriers would meet today with lawyers for the five operating unions to examine legal problems posed by Wirtz' proposal.

Advanced on Thursday night, Wirtz' plan calls for submitting the questions of firemen's jobs and makeup of train crews to an arbitration board of management, union and public representatives. The board would make a binding decision on these key issues. Other issues would be left to settlement by the two sides.

In giving qualified approval, the unions said there first must be agreement on procedures to settle the "other than manning issues." Wirtz said Labor Department officials would meet with rail and union representatives on this matter over the weekend.

"At this moment, it is impossible to know whether a settlement can be reached privately," the secretary said Friday night. "The situation is very critical."

Strike Due Aug. 29
After learning of the unions' statement, Wolfe said, "Their response was so surrounded with reservations as to cast doubt on their sincerity." He told newsmen the unions' position "may present an insurmountable obstacle" to final settlement.

Unless the dispute is settled or legislation to deal with it is passed, the railroads will put the job-eliminating rules into effect Aug. 29, Wolfe said. The unions have said they will call an immediate strike once the rules changes are posted.

At the core of the dispute are the jobs of about 32,000 firemen on yard engines and freight trains. The railroads say they are no longer needed. The unions contend they are essential for efficient and safe operations.

The number of men—conductors and brakemen—to be assigned to train crews is the other chief item in disagreement.

President Kennedy proposed turning the dilemma over to the Interstate Commerce Commission, which would decide work-rules issues for a two-year interim while the parties continued negotiations for a permanent settlement. Except for holding hearings, Congress has been slow to act.

First Lady Hopes To Have Another Baby Next Year
HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy is spending his seventh consecutive weekend with his family at their seaside retreat on Cape Cod. He flew up from Washington late Friday.

Mrs. Kennedy is convalescing at their gray-shingle residence from the caesarean, premature birth 16 days ago of a son who lived less than two days.

Although the First Lady has an extended record of difficult births in her 10 years of marriage, she still wants to have another baby.

Reports came out of nearby Otis Air Force Base, where Mrs. Kennedy spent a week in a military hospital, that she had received wonderful treatment and wanted to return next year to have another baby there.

While the First Lady's doctor has described her recovery as satisfactory, the President is flying back and forth from the capital to be with her and their children, Caroline, 5½, and John Jr., 2½.

State Democrats Collect $33,000; Goal Is $100,000

LANSING (AP)—The State Democratic Party reports that nearly $33,000 has been collected in its current fund drive.

Stuart Hertzberg, chairman of the party's finance committee, said the amount is about one-third of the immediate party goal of $100,000.

About $2,400 of the money collected has been sent back to 34 county and district committees in the first such move since October, 1961, said Democratic State Chairman Zolton Ferency.

I-75 Traffic Boom Pushes Soo Ahead Of Esky's Trade

Bank debits, an indicator of business showed no gain in Escanaba in July, compared with a year ago, the Federal Bank of Minneapolis reports. It was the first month of no gain in a long time.

Nineteen cities of the Upper Peninsula reporting to the Reserve Bank tallied a gain of 12 per cent in July over the same month a year ago, for a total of $141.3 million.

Marquette was in usual place among Upper Peninsula cities with the largest volume of bank debits (checks against depositors' accounts) with $23.4 million, a gain of 22 per cent over last year and Sault Ste. Marie was in Escanaba's accustomed second place with $16.3 million. Escanaba was third with $15.4 million and Iron Mountain was nudging it with $13.3 million, a gain of 10 per cent.

The Sault's gain reflects its tremendous tourist boom as an unprecedented heavy traffic of pleasure seekers moves through the city and across the new international bridge to the Canadian Sault.

The only part of the Interstate Highway System in the Upper Peninsula is the new expressway from the Mackinac Bridge at St. Ignace to Sault Ste. Marie and it has been a funnel for tourist traffic through the U.P. into Canada. The farther west from St. Ignace, the less impact of tourist traffic in the Upper Peninsula, except for traffic originating in the Milwaukee and Chicago areas and moving into the western U.P. from the south.

The Sault and Canada have benefited from the bonanza of traffic which comes off the Mackinac Bridge, notes the superhighway to the Sault and the old two lane highway to the west, and heads north.

Youth Displays Hobbies At Fair

By VICTOR POWERS

Hobbycraft exhibits displayed in the west end of the U. P. State Fair's Exhibition Building soared to a total of 161 this year far more than in 1962. Fitting them in was a task, but there they are and nearly all visible.

Mrs. Alice Allen, superintendent and Mrs. Nettie Seidl, assistant, are particularly proud of the work of the juniors which they required in many cases much work, study and imagination in arrangement. As examples they point to the blue ribbon Civil War Memorabilia of Dan Lee, Escanaba, and the sweepstakes winning shells of Florida collection of Barbara Bonn, Menominee Rte. 1. Second in shell collections was Christine Larson, Wells.

Frederic Jurmu, Escanaba, mounted and labeled 100 Years of Coins, 1825-1925 for a first. Second went to Mark Phillip, Gladstone, for Coins of The World, which has the coins mounted on country or origin on a world map.

Another junior sweepstakes went to Barbara Nelson, Escanaba, for Angelfish, a "painting" with seeds. Christine Larson, Wells, had the blue ribbon doll and Barbara Lippens, Route 1, Gladstone a mineral collection.

The insect prize winners were Tom McMillan, James Gugiere and Robert Perron, young Escanabans who hunt for their specimens together and trade to build up their collections.

John Pearson, Escanaba, had a blue ribbon for his frame of military medals and insignia. Leather working prizes went to Sharon DeMille, Stephenson, for a purse and Marvin Sager, Stephenson, for a knife sheath.

In the special rocking chair class for those 65 and over, a tapestry craft bird and flower picture made with colored tissue by Mrs. Nelson, Gladstone, received a blue ribbon and John Beck, Champion, had a second for a plaster cast of two carved figures.

Senior sweepstakes went to a panel of driftwood flower holders by Mrs. Gertrude Tang, Gladstone Rte. 1. Among the pottery animals, a blue ribbon went to Evelyn Walker, Escanaba, for a trio of horses and second to Clara Beauchamp, Ironwood, for a crouching rabbit. Miss Walker had a first for a lovely woodcarving.

Silver jewelry won a first for Margaret Anderson, Carney, and a second went to Mrs. Clifford Larson, Wells, for copper enamel jewelry. A Kincheole Air Force Base soldier, Samuel Rehberg had red and blue ribbons for a worked leather picture frame and picture.

Mrs. Herman Erdmann, Iron Mountain, had a first for her coin collection and Arthur Gagnier, Escanaba, for models of logging sleigh, tools and harness.

Cut For GM Puts 28 Million Hole In Pontiac Taxes

PONTIAC (AP)—A $28 million hole has been punched in Pontiac's tax income, city manager John Reineck says.

He said the State Tax Commission has granted General Motors Corp. a $28 million tax reduction on its property here. Reineck said the city probably will be forced to clamp a lid on spending and employment since GM's assessments make up more than half of Pontiac's tax base.

GM had requested a $32 million assessment cut from the commission.

Allison I. Lord

Al Lord Named Staff Manager By Prudential

Allison I. Lord, former agent in the Prudential Insurance company's Escanaba District office, has been named staff manager at the firm's Ironwood office.

He will supervise a staff of nine Prudential agents operating out of headquarters at 114 S. Suffolk St., Ironwood.

Lord has been a Prudential agent two years. During that time he won both Prudential's President's Citation and Northern Star Awards. He has also attended regional business conferences in Hollywood-by-the-Sea, Fla., and in Minneapolis.

Lord, a native of Milwaukee, was graduated in 1947 from St. Joseph High School, Escanaba. He is currently taking courses offered by the Life Underwriters Training Council.

A veteran of the Korean conflict, he has served as president of the Escanaba Jaycees and as vice president of the Michigan State Jaycees.

He and his wife Barbara are moving from 2223 23rd Ave. S., Escanaba to 145 W. Harding, Ironwood.

Professors Quit Mississippi U.

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—The University of Mississippi—which ends its most difficult year Sunday with the graduation of James H. Meredith—is losing more than 20 per cent of its faculty.

Many professors who are leaving say the reason is because of "reoccurring threats of political interference not conducive to an academic atmosphere."

An Associated Press survey shows that 54 faculty members listed in the 1962-63 university catalog will not return for the fall term, which begins next month.

A similar study conducted six weeks ago by The AP indicated about 35 faculty members were leaving.

Dr. J. D. Williams, chancellor of the 115-year-old university, estimates there are some 200 full-time teaching positions on his faculty.

He said the normal turnover among his teachers in past years has been 10 per cent.

Before Meredith enrolled and touched off the bitterest struggle and a stat since the Civil War, most of the faculty turnover had been instructors and assistant professors—the two lowest grades.

But now there are 11 faculty members with the rank of full professor and 17 associate professors leaving. Those are the two highest teaching grades.

Pay Raise Given Court Referees

DETROIT (AP)—The five Detroit traffic court referees are expected to work full time now that the city council has granted them a pay raise of nearly $5,000 a year.

Council set the referees' new salary at $16,500 by a 6-1 vote Friday. The referees generally have been working half a day.

Arts Building Ready For Fall

MARQUETTE—Northern Michigan University's Fine and Practical Arts Building, first classroom facility constructed on the campus since Kaye Hall was completed in 1915, will be ready for occupancy this fall.

Five departments will move from cramped and outmoded quarters in Kaye Hall to the new $2,650,000 structure which will house the departments of music, art, dramatic arts, home economics and industrial arts.

Constructed with capital outlay funds appropriated by the Legislature, the building contains classrooms, an auditorium, laboratories, studios, offices, and workshops. It will provide needed facilities for a student body which has increased 370 per cent in the past 10 years.

The building contains 122,224 square feet and measures 565 feet from east to west and 304 feet from north to south. It is zoned into three major areas connected by foyers and corridors. The auditorium on the east adjoins the three-level central unit which connects with the industrial arts unit to the west.

Occupying the central unit will be the music department on the ground floor, the home economics department on the first floor and the art department on the second floor.

Fair Entertainers Aid Blood Donor Drive At Prison

Entertainment acts from the U. P. State Fair are in the State Prison at Marquette today — to help with a blood donor kick-off program and encourage prison inmates to sign up as donors.

Acts from the Val Campbell All American Revue, including Earl Lidey and his troupe of chumps, Jean Gorey, musician, and Bill Trotter, master of ceremonies, were loaned for the show at Marquette prison through the courtesy of the U. P. State Fair Board of Managers.

Arrangements for the appearance of the professional entertainers to appear were made with the assistance of Victor Nelson and John Mitchell of the Escanaba Kiwanis Club's prison counseling committee.

Last year the prisoners at Marquette donated a total of 410 pints of blood. This represented donations by 40 per cent of the prison population.

State Highway Dept. Okays Two U.P. Road Jobs

LANSING — (AP) Construction projects totaling nearly $3.6 million were approved by the Highway Department Friday.

Projects and low bidders: Houghton County, 4.3 miles of grading, culverts and paving on U.S.-41 from the Houghton-Baraga County Line, Thornton Co., Hancock, $642,696.

Keweenaw County, 9.8 miles of grading, culverts and paving on U.S.-41, I. L. Whitehead, Sault Ste. Marie, $224,482.

LeRoy Jones To Study At U-M

LeRoy A. Jones of Escanaba, clinical psychologist with the Upper Peninsula Child Guidance Branch here, left today for Detroit and will later study at the University of Michigan in work toward a doctor's degree.

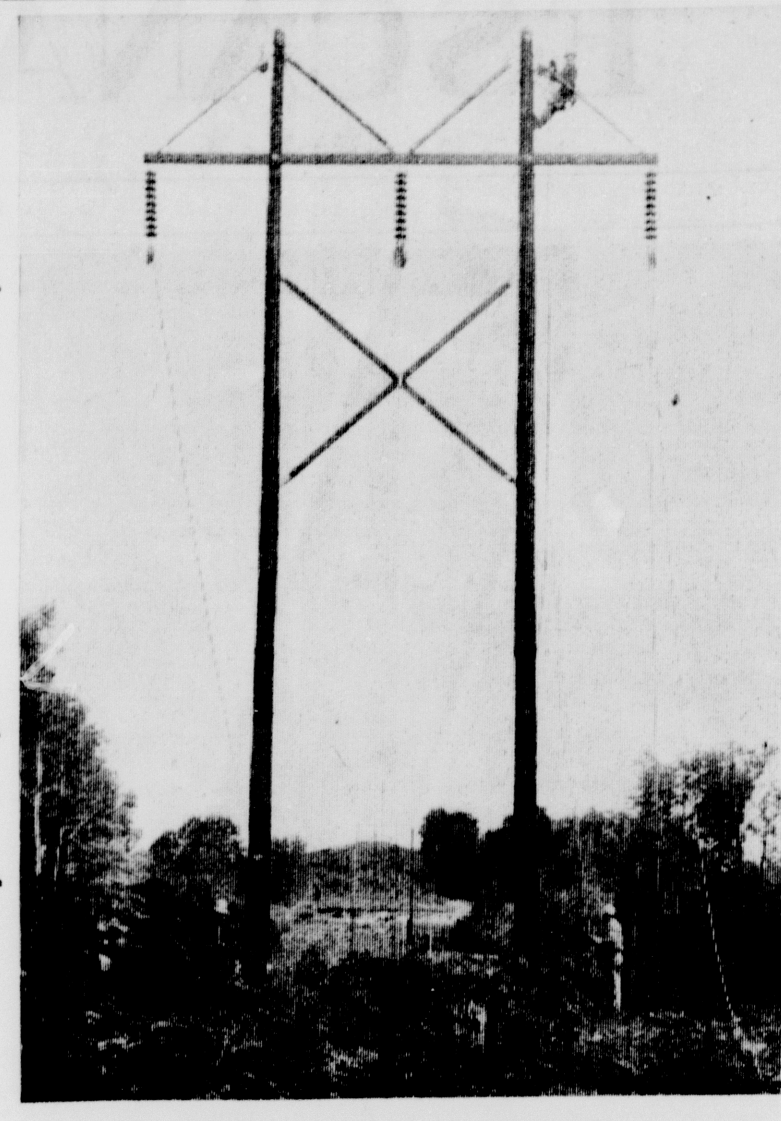

Jones came here in 1960 and was a member of the Escanaba Rotary Club.

At the University of Michigan he will be employed part-time in the University clinic and for half days will attend classes in a course of study leading toward a doctorate in clinical psychology.

Bidaults Take Refuge In Rio

RIO DE ANEIRO (AP)—Mrs. Georges Bidault arrived Thursday to join her husband, one-time French premier, who is wanted in France on charges of plotting to kill President Charles de Gaulle.

Bidault was granted asylum here in April, after he was spotted hiding out in West Germany and expelled from that country.

Ivan Auger, atop 70-foot pole, hooks a cable held by Pete LeGault on the ground. Both are employees of Hydaker-Wheatlake Co. which is building a 138,000 volt line to supply power for mining and pelletizing operations at the new Empire Mine near Palmer.

Copter Fails To Pull Cable For Empire Project

ISHPEMING — The tractor operator still has a big role in installation of high tension power lines through rough terrain in Upper Michigan's forest areas.

A two-day attempt to do the job with a helicopter was abandoned Thursday, largely because of winds which buffeted the craft in the air. It was obvious too, that the nearly mile-long steel-aluminum cable which it would have been pulling probably was too heavy for the light "chopper."

"We decided against it," Frank Wheatlake, president of the Hydaker-Wheatlake Co., Big Rapids, power line builders, declared. But he indicated that another effort to use a helicopter in this type of work—where terrain makes it difficult to use a tractor—would be undertaken on some future job.

The Hydaker-Wheatlake firm is engaged in constructing a 138,000-volt line for the Upper Peninsula Power Co. from the latter's Cedar Lake substation south of Ishpeming to the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co.'s Empire mine and pelletizing plant now being constructed at Palmer. Much of the 3½-mile line will cross rugged, hilly terrain south of Suicide Hill, with one portion so steep a tractor would be pulled up by ropes.

First Michigan Trial

Experimental use of a helicopter pulling the cable from a reel near Cedar Lake—believed to be the first time such aerial installation ever was tried in Michigan—began smoothly enough Wednesday and Thursday mornings.

The pickup of the cable—tied to a 600-foot nylon rope trailing behind a weighted barrel strung 50 feet underneath the helicopter—was effected without incident and the cable pulled and hooked over the first 70-foot-high span. But when the helicopter reached the second span, high atop a hill, it was rocked by a tailwind that prevented it from hovering to permit a lineman to grab the cable.

Pilot Loftus, operations manager for Omniflights, Beulah, Mich., released and dropped the barrel holding the cable when winds made it dangerous for him to remain in the air.

A second attempt early Thursday morning followed much the same pattern, except that the "copter pulled a cable from the other end of the line being built. Wheatlake then made the decision to conduct the installation in usual fashion, using a tractor to pull the cables and pulleys to haul them up onto the spans.

Heavy Load

Some idea of the load the helicopter would have to pull can be realized from the fact that a single reel of cable—4,730 feet of it—

Canada To Get U.S. Warheads

OTTAWA (AP) — Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson announced today that Canada and the United States have reached agreement on the conditions under which Canadian forces will acquire nuclear warheads.

He told a news conference after a cabinet meeting that arrangements relating to custody and control of the warheads "satisfactorily protect Canada's national interests and conform with the position Canada has taken internationally on the non-dissemination of nuclear weapons."

In a prepared statement, the prime minister said the United States will retain custody of nuclear stockpiles. But Canada will share control in any use of the warheads, he added.

"When the stockpiles are established the warheads will remain in United States custody, and for this purpose small units of United States custodial personnel will be stationed at the Canadian storage sites, at bases which will of course remain under Canadian command and control," Pearson's statement said.

"With custody remaining with the United States, the arrangement does not add to the numbers of government's having nuclear weapons at their independent disposal."

The statement said the agreement provides for "the application at all times of the most stringent safety measures."

"Finally, these nuclear warheads cannot be used operationally without the authorization of the Canadian government."

"Joint control is thus assured."

War On Alcholism Campaign Planned By U.P. Group

By CLINT DUNATHAN

Suggestions for establishing of an Upper Peninsula Alcoholism Education Project were received by representatives of the Michigan State Board of Alcoholism at a meeting held in the State Office Building at Escanaba on Friday.

Proposed is a three-year intensive program of education on the problem of alcoholism, said Ralph Daniel, executive director of the State Board of Alcoholism.

Present for the meeting here with about 30 representatives of industry, courts, schools, hospitals, churches, social and welfare agencies and other interests of the peninsula was George Stewart, education director of the State Board of Alcoholism.

Daniel and Stewart explained to the group the need to get reactions and receive suggestions in advance of requesting a grant from the National Institute of Mental Health. The application would be for a grant of $25,000 to finance the Upper Peninsula project for three years.

Plan U. P. Office
"The plan is to have all suggestions submitted by Aug. 31 and the final proposal ready for submission to the National Institute of Mental Health by Sept. 30," said Daniel.

"The objective is an office in the Upper Peninsula where a full-time person would be stationed to work with those who work with alcoholics, to further improve methods of treatment, and to educate and stimulate programs of alcoholism education," said Daniel.

The alcoholism education project would make available to physicians, social workers, attorneys,

Clergymen, law enforcement officers, courts, hospitals, health departments, educators and employers in the Upper Peninsula new knowledge about early detection, treatment, and rehabilitation of alcoholics.

"The plan is based on the belief that the major hope in meeting problems of alcoholism lies in improving methods now used by existing resources and that such treatment improvement must accompany, if not precede, the establishment of specialized services," said Daniel.

Advisory Group
Present methods of handling alcoholism problems have not been successful and, therefore, not satisfying to the people of the Upper Peninsula who come in contact with alcoholics, he added.

The educator or social worker who would be hired for the duration of the project would have the assistance of a steering committee of about 25 Upper Peninsula persons relationships with existing agencies and groups such as U. P. colleges and universities.

An office would be established in the Upper Peninsula, according to the proposal, and the original objective would be to foster working relationships with groups such as the Hospital Association, Medical Societies, and Bar and Ministerial Associations.

Prevention Role
"We are hopeful the grant will be approved, of course, and if it is the project could be started as early as next summer," said Daniel.

"We feel that the citizens of Escanaba and other communities in Michigan and across the nation are paying too much in treating the problem of alcoholism as a mopping up operation," said Daniel. "The cost is high for law enforcement, for families broken by divorce, for meeting the effects rather than spending our funds to educate toward prevention of alcoholism," he added.

The goal is not prohibition but to help build people gain the strength necessary to meet the normal problems of life without the crutch of alcohol, he said.

Well Attended
Among those attending the Friday meeting here were:

Irene Larson, R. N., Michigan Department of Health; Charles Folio, University of Michigan Extension; Barbara J. Wyss, Escanaba Area Public Schools; W. A. Deloria, salesman; John J. Ganon, Hotel proprietor; Lyle Plowman, Delta County Bureau of Social Welfare; Robert Drew, Michigan Department of Mental Health; the Rev. Gordon Thorpe, pastor of Immanuel Lutheran Church, all of Escanaba.

Howard Lehwald, St. Luke's Hospital; A. S. Mowery, Michigan State University Extension, both of Marquette; Rev. C. C. Putnam, St. John's Episcopal Church, Iron River; William E. Carroll, Gogebic County superintendent of Schools, Bessemer; Jean R. Pearman, Northern Michigan University, Marquette; Dr. William Purmort and K. Summerett, Newberry State Hospital, Newberry.

J. Dwight Leavitt, U. P. Power Co.; Douglas Rappley, Michigan College of Mining and Technology; Probate Judge Joseph M. Donnelly, all of Houghton; Samuel S. Platt, attorney, Sault Ste. Marie; the Rev. Eric Hammar, Methodist clergyman, and William Collins, Ishpeming; Wendell Haben, M. A. Hanna Co., Iron Mountain; Benedict Rihli, Copper Country Health District, Hancock; William C. Augustson, Sault News Printing Co., Sault Ste. Marie.

James A. Noyes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Noyes, 4202 N. Melvina, Chicago, former residents of Escanaba, made the Dean's list for distinguished students and was awarded a merit scholarship for the coming year at Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind. He is majoring in Engineering and for the summer is working for the New York Central Railroad, out of Indianapolis.

JA Delegates At Conference

The 20th Annual National Junior Achievers Conference opens on the campus of Indiana University on Sunday, August 18 and continues through Friday, Aug. 23rd.

Allen Chernick and Douglas Koehler, two teen-age members from Escanaba will take part in this year's conference. They were selected at the close of the 1962-63 Junior Achievement year by the board of directors.

The young adults who attend are officers and member of miniature corporations that have operated during the past year under the guidance of Junior Achievement.

Many will enter "Officer of the Year" Contests to select the most outstanding youthful leaders.

Through their work in Junior Achievement young people "learn by doing," the American free enterprise system as it exists today. Junior Achievement is hailed as the most unique teen-age organization in existence, is an educational program to help prepare the employers, employees and citizens of the future.

Model Airplane Winners Listed

Escanabans took most of the honors in the model airplane contest at the State Fair Friday.

In the junior division, John LaPorte was first in both stunt and combat classes. Guy Donovan and Nelson Dahl followed in stunt and Scott Scheffler in combat.

In the senior division, Mike Donovan was first in the stunt class, followed by David Dooley of Marquette and Cameron Murtaugh of Pickford. In combat, Phillip Martin of Marquette was first, Mike Donovan second.

Ag Board Will Meet In Esky

The five member State Agricultural Commission which establishes the policies of the Michigan Department of Agriculture will hold its August meeting in Escanaba next Monday and Tuesday in the State Office Building. Interested persons are invited to attend these public meetings.

The Monday session will begin at 4 p.m., following a 1 p.m. meeting that will be attended by commissioners regarding the necessity for use of the Seal of Quality on Michigan potatoes. The meeting on Tuesday will convene at 9 a.m., with time out for a 12:30 luncheon at the Sherman Hotel with agricultural leaders of the area.

The agenda may be concluded early enough Tuesday so as to permit commissioners to go on a tour of points of agricultural interest in nearby sections of the Upper Peninsula. The following day is the Governor's luncheon at the Upper Peninsula State Fair.

The current commission is made up of Edward J. Wright, Saginaw Guernsey cattle breeder, chairman; R. K. Stout, Marshall Jernigan cattle breeder, vice chairman; Mrs. Kay D. Sleik of Iron Mountain, representing consumers; secretary: Archie M. Murphy, East Jordan dairyman; and Blaque C. Knirk, Quincy livestock farmer.

Members of the commission are appointed for six-year staggered terms by the governor, subject to Senate confirmation. Under the law the political division of the membership must be as even as possible, and one member must be from the Upper Peninsula.

Thunderbirds To Stage Air Show At Base Sept. 2

The famed Air Force aerial acrobatic flying team "The Thunderbirds" will make their K. I. Sawyer Air Force Base, debut Monday, Sept. 2, in a gala open house ceremony.

The flying team, making their first appearance in this part of the country, will perform such maneuvers as the "viwerdill," Cuban eight and the "Calypso roll," among others.

The event will be open to the public.

The Thunderbirds normally fly their entire show at a low altitude and within a one-mile radius of the show area. This enables spectators to see every maneuver as well as listen to the narrator describe the demonstration.

Since 1953 the team has performed in red, white and blue fighters before 51 million people in 31 countries.

Two Rivers Again Gladiolus Winner

By AMY B. MOBERG

Al W. Schmidt of Two Rivers, Wis., again took the grand championship of the Upper Peninsula State Fair Gladiolus show, with his entry, "Sparkle," a soft yellow bloom with a red center. Reserve champion rating was won by Harvey Carrier, also of Two Rivers.

The amateur entries this year swept the show with Walter Fudala of Bark River taking the honors with his "Pink Parasol."

Marie Ravet of Menominee was first in the artistic arrangements division, Lloyd Ravet, Menominee, won the junior championship, and section championships went to Harvey Carrier with "Baby Blue Eyes" and William Hachmann of Two Rivers with "Band Wagon."

The show, with uniformly beautiful blooms, unaffected by adverse weather, set records in all divisions.

Judging might have dismayed anyone but an expert like Professor G. E. Beck of the University of Wisconsin who has been officiating at the show at the U. P. State Fair for a number of years. His able assistants, who worked with him with the know-how of other years, were Mrs. Robert Jensen and Mrs. William Johnson of Groes, Paul Ravet of Menominee and Art Englemeyer of Brampton, prominent members of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan Gladiolus Society, and Walter Nelson, Escanaba florist.

Their task, watched by interested spectators, was completed by early evening and the flowers of myriad colors, shades and markings, with their premium ribbons were in place for viewing the last two days of the fair.

As is customary, to best display the beauty of the gladiolus, each spike is in a small green container, arranged with cedar foliage and the exhibit is on the pyramid stands used the early part of the week for the floriculture entries.

Special arrangements are artistic, utilizing the flowers to the best advantage in decorative arrangements. Among them are mauve flowers in driftwood, all white in wicker baskets, many groupings in conventional vases, cornucopias, spilling their blooms, and, with an eye to the coming season, holiday arrangements of white combined with Christmas ornaments and evergreens.

The Gladiolus Show has become one of the leading attractions of the fair and there is every indication that its popularity will continue to grow.

Cannery Opens At Stephenson

The Stephenson Community Cannery operated by the Stephenson Consolidated Schools has been opened for the canning season. A new steam boiler has been installed and repairs have been made to improve operational facilities.

Persons interested to use the canning facilities must make reservations at least one day in advance with Mrs. Margaret Sakowitz, who will be in charge of operations.

Patrons must bring their own pans, towels, and working utensils. Children under 12 years of age are barred for safety reasons.

Rare Antiques Win Attention At Fair

By VICTOR POWERS

Centered along the east side of the Industrial Exhibits Building at the U. P. State Fair is the antique department. Rare, indeed, is the group that passes its display cases without discovering that "There is a bowl just like the one Grandma had in the parlor!"

It's the prime evoker of nostalgic conversation on the grounds and with reason for here is displayed heirloom and the quaint gleanings from the attic. Pointing to a pair of brightly polished brass carriage lamps one woman exclaimed, "Why, there are some of those old things in the dump back of the barn at home!"

Hardly a minute later there was another woman requesting the name of the exhibitor, "because my Ed is fixing up a place for our Mary's horse." The lamps and kerosine bicycle lamp won ribbons for Mrs. F. Gunville, Escanaba. She also had prizes for a match-holder and an inkwell combined with pen and letter holder.

An 80 year old fur trimmed brocade coat entered by Laurel

Weiland, Escanaba, and a jet headed dress shown by Clara Beauchamp, Ironwood, were tops at the U. P. State Fair is the antique department. Rare, indeed, is the group that passes its display cases without discovering that "There is a bowl just like the one Grandma had in the parlor!"

The class of the glassware was a colored milk glass cookie jar entered by Mrs. Marie Arntzen, Escanaba. Second went to Mrs. William Miller, Escanaba, for a cut glass bowl. Mrs. Miller also had prize winners in the silver items for a set of salt dishes and spoons and a mesh purse. A Haviland China plate brought Mrs. John Nicholas, Escanaba, a blue ribbon and a sugar duster a red.

Tom Grenfell's 44-40 Colt won the blue ribbon in a group of handguns. Mrs. Frank Peters, Hermansville, won with a butter churn and Mrs. H. Erdmann, Iron Mountain with a wicker covered demi-john.

From a rather large entry of old books an outstanding children's Bible printed in 1884 brought a first prize to Shirley Larson, Wells, and a small red leather covered book of poetry a second for Clara Beauchamp, Ironwood.

Clarence Moyle, Escanaba, won in the Michigan relics class with his mechanical band and a shoe last and Mary Hendrickson, Gladstone, showed a prize winning centerpiece.

Special collections prizes went to Mrs. Karen Kline, Bark River, nine piece commode set; Mrs. A. Mattson, Gladstone, cups and saucers and Mrs. John Nicholas, Escanaba, collection of cups.

Michigan Minimum Wage

The legislative committee hearing on a minimum wage law for Michigan revealed some Upper Peninsula hotel book-keeping. Our hotels represent large investments in their communities and they are not making a good rate of return on their investment.

The implications of the hearing, extraneous to the minimum wage study, are serious:

1. Communities should appreciate their hotels as important community resources which would, in most cases, be impossible to replace at this time with today's hotel prospects.

2. Hotels offer many services vital to communities, but they operate under changing conditions which make them bear the costs of some services which are no longer supported by the public enough to be profitable. The decline in commercial travelers' use of hotels with improvement in travel was cited as a major influence in business decline.

Faced with a struggle for income and survival, the hotels view with concern any proposal which would increase their operating costs without increasing their income. The minimum wage act would do this.

Witnesses at the legislative committee's hearing in Escanaba said that their costs would be increased amounts like $32,000 and $29,900 a year if a $1.25 an hour minimum wage law were enacted by the state.

(There already is a federal minimum wage act whose rate will rise from $1.15 to $1.25 on Sept. 13, but it does not cover such service industry workers.)

The hotel men said that when tips are counted, waitresses in most of their establishments are substantially near $1.15-an-hour minimum wage. (This situation fluctuates from establishment to establishment obviously. In some Lower Peninsula restaurants waitresses not only get no base pay as they do in the Upper Peninsula, but must kick back a part of their tips to their employers.)

The unions will be quick to say that if operational costs will be increased as much as cited that there is need for a minimum wage act, but our legislators, sitting between the contending unions and the defensive hotel, restaurants, movie theater and other service industry representatives, must have been impressed with the sincerity of the petition of the service industries of the Upper Peninsula.

It was notable that while Upper Peninsula operators were being urged to emulate other successful enterprises in their fields by raising their wages and helping their communities, the examples cited to them are not operating in the Upper Peninsula. There are no Hilton hotels in the Upper Peninsula, there are no Stouffers restaurants, no Holiday Inns. These chains have no antipathy for the Upper Peninsula; they go where they can make a buck easiest. That doesn't describe the Upper Peninsula, with its short tourist season, small population, and non-boom economy.

Mrs. Myra Wolfgang, international vice president of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees and Bartenders Union, said "We hear over and over: 'I'm for minimum wage, but not for my industry.'"

"The reason I'm personally interested is because one outstanding group in Michigan not covered by the federal act is service industries and 80 per cent of the workers are women. Most women's organizations in the state, such as the Business & Professional Women, the YWCA, the Michigan Nurses Association, are supporting the minimum wage bill.

"Personnel in manufacturing industries is shrinking and there are fewer blue collar workers, but service industries are expanding. People making more than the minimum wages, like workers in manufacturing industry, are becoming unemployed and more are going into service industries where they are without job protection. Our economy will be seriously affected unless we raise the purchasing power of the people in the service industries.

"All the economists have stated that the standard of poverty in this country is anyone who earns less than $2,000 a year. The majority of non-professional women in the convalescent home industry and service workers in hotel and restaurant industry earn less than $2,000 a year, so there's a moral obligation on the part of the Legislature to correct this inequity."

The union position would force the wage law and let service industries cope with it as best they could. This could seriously injure some of our industries which have no hope of being like Stouffer or Hilton, but which are vital to their communities.

William J. Weddell, executive secretary of the Michigan Restaurant Association, testified that the average restaurant employee produces $6,600 in annual sales volume, compared to supermarket worker's $12,000 and a department store worker's $18,000; that 34 cents of the restaurateur's dollar goes for labor costs.

He said a department of Labor study of eating and drinking establishments showed 62 pct. of waiters and waitresses surveyed who earned under $1 an hour in wages, received $1 and over an hour in tips, and that 90 pct. earning under $1 an hour in wages averaged at least 50c an hour in tips.

Phony Criticism

In the months ahead President Kennedy's conduct of his office quite naturally will come under severe and unrelenting Republican gunfire.

The Republicans might learn a few lessons from the Democrats' tactics in pursuing the office four years ago.

It does not seem wise to try to define too sharply what the operations of the presidency should be. Kennedy attempted this when he was on the outside watching Dwight D. Eisenhower conduct the office. And Kennedy has wound up doing many of the very same things Eisenhower did.

For example, Kennedy the campaigner was highly critical of Eisenhower for his "traveling diplomacy." Visits to India, Europe and elsewhere were assailed as essentially useless exercises. But Kennedy himself recently completed such a trip.

Eisenhower often was attacked for not staying in Washington more. The charge was, of course, that when he was out of town he was neglecting his job. Comparative figures indicate that Kennedy is gone from the White House at least as much as Eisenhower.

A good many Republicans already have taken up similar assaults on Kennedy. If they win the office in 1964, the chances are that they will have to eat the same crow Kennedy ate when he got the job.

What is involved here is more than just the technical fact that the White House in practical effect moves with the president wherever he goes. The presidency is in considerable part a display office. Leadership of this great nation is not accomplished by chaining oneself to the White House desk.

The Suspense Is Murder!

Edson In Washington Letters To The Press

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON—(NEA)— Ten months after passage of the Trade Expansion Act that was supposed to make the American export business boom, U. S. negotiations with the European Common Market on tariff reductions are in a bad way.

Negotiation of an East-West nonaggression pact with Russia is beginning to look simple by comparison with getting the European countries to reduce their tariffs on frozen poultry imports from the United States.

Three principal causes are given for this cold chicken war. First is the Common Market's refusal to admit Britain as a member.

The second factor is that the six countries in the European Economic Community—EEC—have never given Common Market authorities full power to negotiate for all of them. This gives every member a veto power over tariff reductions.

Finally, the European governments want to retain the European poultry market for their own small farmers, barring competition from American poultrymen.

All this was supposed to be worked out by early August. But France and West Germany in particular refused to allow tariff cuts on American poultry imports. This means that the issue will have to go before General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade—GATT negotiations. They are scheduled to open in Geneva in September.

Also scheduled for September is President Kennedy's submission to the U. S. Tariff Commission of the long list of articles on which this country will propose across-the-board tariff reductions of up to 50 per cent, under the new trade law.

The Tariff Commission is given six months in which to advise the President on economic effects of these cuts.

During this same period, a U. S. Trade Information Committee of seven government department representatives will hold hearings on the proposed cuts. Here any American business firm may file objections to any proposed changes in tariff rates.

Actual negotiation of these changes with the Common Market countries is now set for May 4, 1964. Most of the difficulty is expected in negotiating tariffs on agricultural products.

U. S. industrial goods trade with the six Common Market countries balanced roughly at $3.5 billion each way in 1962. But last year the U. S. exported $12 billion in agricultural products to the Common Market countries and imported only $250 million worth from them. This gave the U. S. a favorable trade balance of nearly $1 billion it wants to keep.

American poultry exports of $20 million U. S. value and $50 million at European wholesale levels in 1962 is a relatively small item, but it causes the most trouble.

Over 90 per cent of these exports went to Germany, where tariffs have been raised from 4 to 16 cents a pound since 1958. The rate is now 10 cents a pound on value of the poultry itself, plus 6 cents feed grain differential.

European refusal to lower such tariffs may be the beginning of a trade war. This is the British reaction to U. S. trade czar Christian A. Herter's announcement of hearings to open Sept. 4 on retaliatory increases of U. S. tariffs.

If retaliatory increases are put into effect on both sides of the Atlantic, the whole purpose of the Trade Expansion Act will be defeated.

Treasure Our Tomorrows

By RALPH W. LOEW, D. D.

"Civilization begins when the first tree is cut and ends when the last tree is felled." The speaker was the director of forestry in Switzerland, a learned and internationally renowned student. He was looking at the bleak and rocky mountains of a treeless landscape in Greece. After the lush plains of olive trees and the green beauty of the cypress which punctuated the scenery with sharp precision, and harsh, rocky countryside of these provinces was a shock.

The night previously another distinguished international leader had chatted with me. One of Athens' learned jurists, he had just addressed an international assembly of lawyers. He told of his efforts to discover a common body of law which might have international authority as it is derived from the decisions and experience of the United Nations.

These two statements have especial meaning as one sees both the remains of an ancient culture and the hard work of a people trying to wrest a living from this rocky soil.

My forester friend is certain that at some time the ancestors of this diligent people wasted their trees — my jurist friend is afraid that we will all waste the resources of our present experience, eroding our own values.

Perhaps the finest value of travel is not in seeing oceans, trees and mountains but seeing these in relation to our own convictions. One can be angry at another people in another generation. There is now the need to look at our own stewardship.

GLADSTONE

Mrs. LeRoy Francis Sovey (Ridings Photo)

Roberta Marie Snyder LeRoy Sovey's Bride

A gown of white silk organza over taffeta and net was chosen by Roberta Marie Snyder for her wedding today to LeRoy Francis Sovey.

Father Matt LaViolette officiated at the 11 a. m. double ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Snyder, 708 Delta Ave., Gladstone, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sovey, 1320 N. 22nd St., Escanaba.

The gown was styled with a snug fitting bodice, Sabrina neckline and long, tapered sleeves. Delicate hand-clipped Chantilly lace enhanced the bodice at the neckline and above the midriff, as well as forming cuffs at the sleeves. The skirt was bouffant lavishly trimmed with matching lace across the front and dipping in the back. Silk roses caught up the lace at the hemline on front and back, terminating in a chapel train. A pearlized crown held her elbow length veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade of pink roses and feathered carnations.

Terry Sovey was his brother's best man. Groomsman were Dave Juhl, Don Madsen and Tim Runkle and ushers were Claude LeDuc Jr. and Don Bougie.

Mrs. Snyder wore beige accessories with her brown jacket dress and Mrs. Sovey wore a maize linen sheath jacket dress with brown accessories. Their corsages were matching orchids.

The wedding breakfast was served at The Terrace and the reception will be held from 4 to 8 at the Midway in Gladstone.

The newlyweds will live in Wells after a honeymoon in Lower Michigan. The bride is a Holy Name High School graduate and is employed at Sears Roebuck & Co. Mr. Sovey, a graduate of Escanaba High School, is with Harnischfeger.

Fined $50 For Drunk Driving

House of the Week

Small Homes Can Sparkle

Everything from its arresting facade to its angled interior walls and dramatic cathedral ceilings marks this as one of the most creative designs ever to appear in the House of the Week series.

That's a powerful claim, but the fact that this house contains a basic area of only 1,297 sq. ft. makes it a safe one.

Architect Samuel Paul, who has accepted the challenge of strict space limitations many times in the past, has shown more clearly than ever in this elegant little design that small homes can be just as imaginative as large ones.

Dimensions of the house are only 51'4" by 45' over-all, which means it will be quite comfortable on a 65' lot. The design is number J-89 in the House of the Week series.

Among its more striking features is what architect Paul calls a carport—a roofed area, open on one side, which can serve as a sheltered parking area or as a covered addition to an entrance court.

Another exciting innovation, included as an aid to creative interior decorating, is the intentionally angled walls of the living, dining and family rooms. In addition, the three bedrooms plus the living and dining rooms have sloped ceilings which conform to the size of each room.

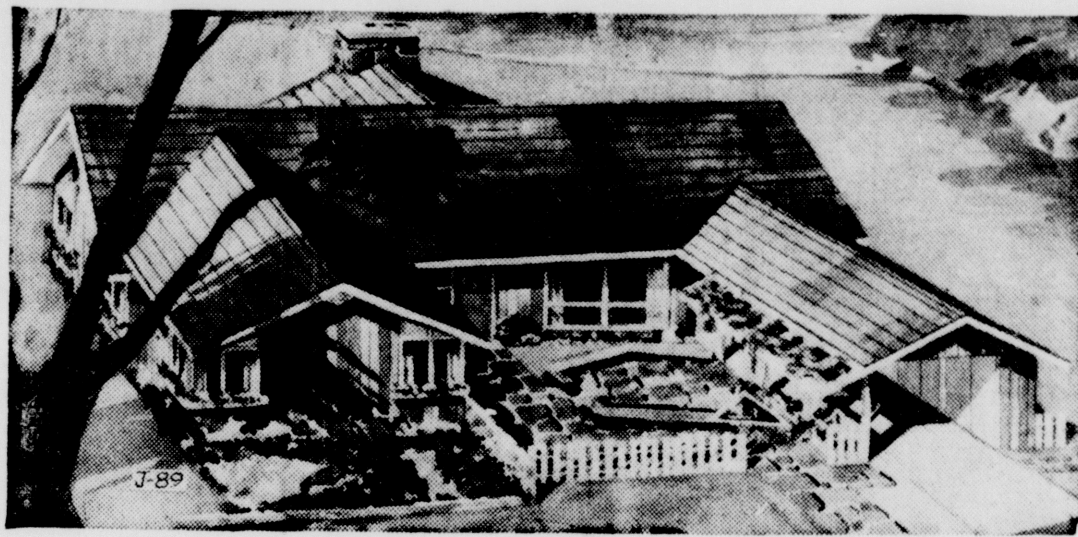

Best of all, these interesting innovations aren't inordinately expensive, as their sparkling difference might suggest. As always, Paul has kept one eye on economy throughout the design.

For the exterior of the house Paul used basically only one material, vertical siding, so as not to detract from the unusual shape which is the source of its charm. The shape and location of windows, a few flower boxes, a touch of plywood and some stone veneer facing the entrance court provide colorful accents.

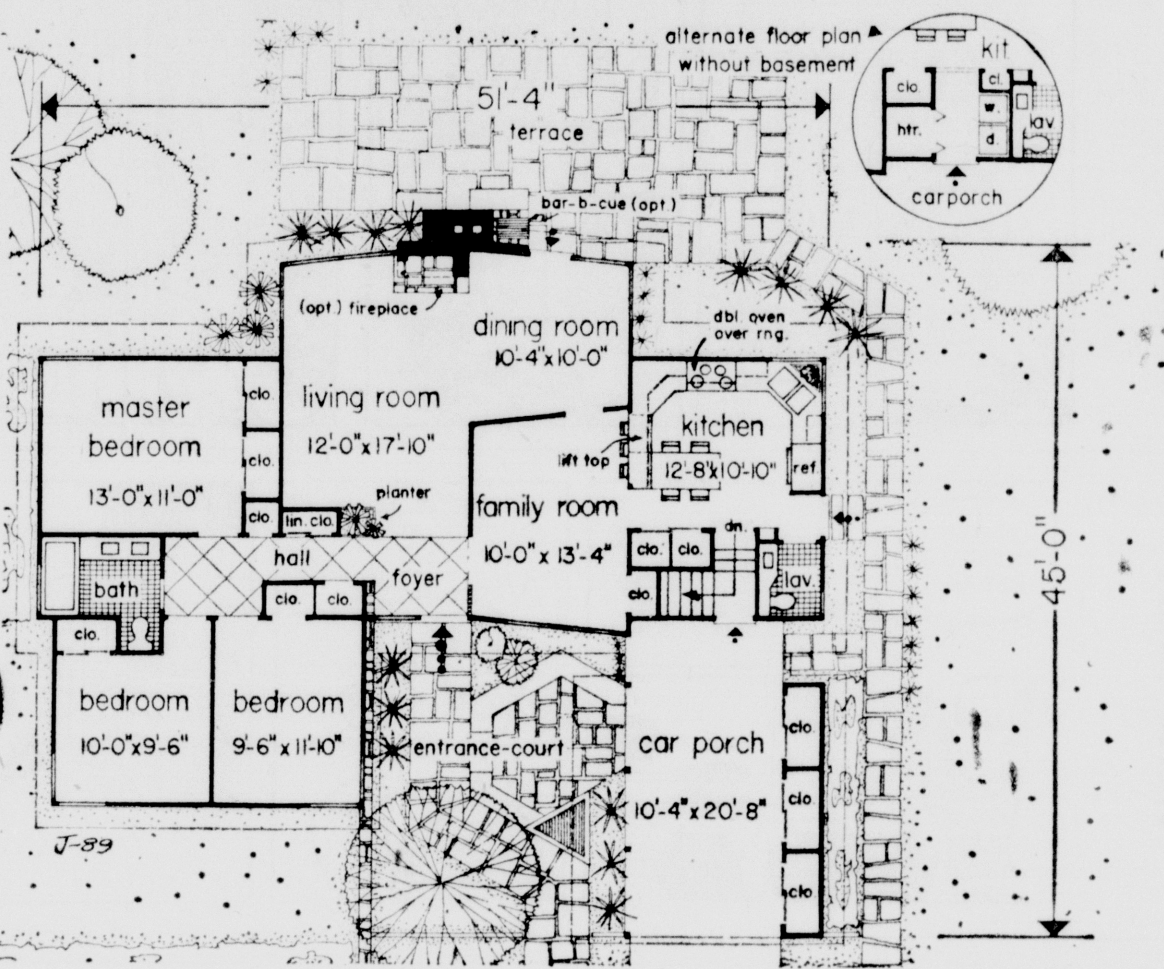

Additional Details
An important detail that might go unnoticed at first glance is that all three bedrooms plus the living room, dining room and kitchen are corner rooms, with a resulting abundance of light and air.

A nice entrance foyer serves as a visual addition to the living room but at the same time keeps traffic out of the room and efficiently funnels it to any one of the three activity areas—sleeping area, formal area and informal area, all of which are clearly zoned with the latter two properly interrelated.

A low planter adjoins the linen closet at the foyer, and the closet also has a high planter above it. The combination forms a pleasant entrance to the living room. As an optional feature Paul has included a striking corner fireplace, the type that can be viewed from any part of the room, which helps to define the dining room boundary. An optional barbecue uses the same chimney on the patio outside.

Charmingly Different: This elegant little ranch contains seven full rooms in modest dimensions of 51'4" by 45'. A courtyard graces the entrance, and inside cathedral ceilings and angled walls provide a dramatic difference. It has three bedrooms, 1½ baths.

Floor Plan: Carport could be added later, or eliminated altogether without hurting architectural symmetry. Inset shows how basement also could be eliminated, with heater and laundry equipment occupying stair well area. Basic house contains 1,297 square feet.

The kitchen has a double bowl corner sink and a new type cooking ensemble which features a double oven at eye level over an extra wide range top.

A breakfast bar, which has a step-saving lift-top, divides the kitchen and family room. In addition to the bar there is plenty of room for a table in the kitchen.

A lavatory is well located near the service entrance and the kitchen. The main bath is convenient to the formal area as well as the bedrooms.

There are two major optional features. One is elimination of the basement, in which case laundry and heater equipment would go where the basement stair is located. The other is elimination of the carport entirely, or delaying its construction until you can better afford it.

When built, the carport will provide an additional 260 cubic feet of storage space besides its more obvious benefits. It also will be the key feature in a charming entrance courtyard which could be developed with low stone benches, flower beds, perhaps a reflecting pool or fountain.

Joan Schnurer Is Bride Of Sylvester Rubick Jr.

In a 9 a.m., single ring ceremony in St. Francis de Sales Church today Miss Joan Margaret Schnurer and Sylvester Lawrence Rubick exchanged nuptial vows.

Miss Schnurer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vertal Schnurer Rte. 1, and Mr. Rubick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Rubick Sr., 626 Oak St.

The Rev. Terence Donnelly officiated. Miss Christine Schnurer, a cousin was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Lucille Schnurer, a sister and Miss Lana Schnurer, a cousin.

Ron Rubick was best man for his brother and groomsmen were Mr. Lawrence Rubick, uncle of the bridegroom and Dave Beaudre, his cousin. Ushers were Harold Burse and Bill Mattlin.

The bride was attired in a waltz-length gown of white nylon acetate lace over nylon net, styled with scalloped skirt with apron effect, V-neckline and a large backbow. The circular fingertip veil is caught with seed pearls. Her flowers were white carnations and red roses.

The maid of honor wore a yellow nylon chiffon dress with lace jacket and the bridesmaids had similar lar dresses in pink and yellow. Bouquets of yellow, white and pink carnations were carried by the attendants.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Schnurer chose a turquoise 2-piece dress with white accessories and her flowers were pink roses. Mrs. Rubick selected a 2-piece yellow suit with beige accessories. Her flowers were yellow roses.

A reception is scheduled in the Armory.

The couple will live in Dowagiac, where Mr. Rubick will teach. The bride is a graduate of Manistique High School and has been employed at the DMC store. Mr. Rubick attended Michigan College of Mining and Technology, Sault Ste. Marie and Houghton and Michigan State University.

County Has Three Entered In State 4-H Show Aug. 26-29

Schoolcraft County has three winners who will compete in the state 4-H show at Michigan State University which opens Aug. 26 at East Lansing. It is a state fair in miniature and is one of the highlights for the state's 70,000 4-H members.

While much "fair flavor" remains in the 4-H show, the usual carnival atmosphere is replaced with a host of educational activities for exhibitors and delegates.

The Schoolcraft county winners for the state show are Terry Cain, for a child care demonstration; Bob Atherton for public speaking; and Greer Olsen, dress revue. Her alternates are Rosann Fleck and Jacque Anderson.

MSU has hosted the show the past 20 years. It had its beginnings 48 years ago and its staging on campus makes it unique among 4-H activities in the nation.

Only county winners compete in the state finals. Judging of livestock, conservation, nature, arts and crafts, and homemaking exhibits is scheduled each day.

A tractor operator contest, automobile safety contest, public speaking elimination and state dress revue are included in activities. Each day's session, Monday through Wednesday will be climaxed with a special evening program.

Dr. Russ Mawby, state 4-H club leader has invited all 4-H members, leaders and parents to attend the show. The 4-H event is open at no charge to the general public Aug. 26-29.

Although blue ribbons and special prizes will be awarded, members will also get helpful hints through educational tours and meetings. These will include sessions in judging meat, a 4-H chorus, child development, home improvement, safety, nutrition, landscaping and teenage problems.

Citations to 4-H leaders and alumni highlights the Wednesday program. State winners will be announced daily. Selection of the four delegates to the national conference in Washington will be made and 10 alternates will be named to a Canadian exposition in Toronto.

Moms' Picnic

Moms of America, Unit 31 met Thursday evening in the VFW club-rooms for the annual picnic. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Lloyd Neville and Mrs. Naomi Gauthier. The 6:30 p. m. dinner was served from a table centered with a bowl of mixed colored flowers and tall white tapers. A social hour followed the dinner, with prizes awarded Mrs. Harriet Dixon in bunco; Mrs. Grace Collier, 500 and Mrs. Joseph Carefelle, canasta.

Likes Horse Talk

Dear Ann Landers: I don't know if this is the kind of a problem I should be bothering you with but I am only 12 years old and I don't have much love life yet to speak of.

Well, to get to the point, I am crazy about horses. After many years of begging, my folks are finally buying me a horse in September. Now I need to know how to talk horse talk. I've got to get hold of a horse dictionary right away so I will be able to use words like gelding, filly, stud, withers, stallion and yearling.

Please tell me where I can get such a dictionary. I want to start studying now so I won't be ignorant in the horse-circles—NO HORSE SENSE YET

Dear N. H. S.: I know of no horse dictionary and furthermore, even if I did I wouldn't recommend it.

The best way to learn "horse talk" is by being around people who talk it. That's the way they learned.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 17, a girl, and very much worried about my little brother. He is 12 and getting completely out of control. Dad died two months ago and mom had to go to work right away. This left me in charge of the house and my brother. He used to be obedient and polite and never caused any trouble. Now he sasses me, leaves the house whenever he feels like it and comes home when he wants to.

I don't know where he is most of the time or who he is with. When I try to talk to him he tells me I am not his boss and we end up in a fight. My mother is too exhausted and too nervous to argue with him. Daddy was always the one who made the decisions in our family concerning my brother and now that he is gone I have inherited the job.

Please help me, Ann, before my little brother goes bad. —A SISTER

Dear Sister: This is a critical time in your brother's life and I urge you to get help from an adult male. An uncle would be ideal, or a friend of your father. Perhaps your clergyman can come to the rescue.

Your approach to be boy should be gentle. He resents your taking his father's place as the authority in the family. Try to be soft-spoken, and above all, let him know you love him.

Dear Ann Landers: Two years ago I invested $10,000 in a small business. For my $10,000 I own 20%. My partners are four men who are all related to each other. The payroll looks like their family roll call. Before I sat down to write this letter I checked and this is the way it reads: A sister-in-law, two brothers-in-law, a son, two daughters, an uncle, three nieces and a nephew.

The business is doing well, but I have the feeling it would do better if we got rid of some of the relatives. It was recently decided that two of the relatives will be sent to Europe at company expense to "look at items we might buy."

The trip is a phony and I'm burned up about it. What can I do about this boondoggle? —HOT UNDER THE COLLAR

Dear Collar: Sell your 20% and remove yourself from the list of ulcer candidates. What you make on the investment cannot compensate for what you stand to lose.

Confidential: Not Obligated By Law: There is no statute of limitations on a guilty conscience. Pay the man. Surely your reputation is worth a few hundred dollars.

Confidential: To The Go Boy From Peter Amboy: So what good are her dimensions if she has a computer instead of a heart? What you describe is a terrific construction job without a central heating system.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love Or Sex?" enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self addressed envelope.

The Escanaba Daily Press has expanded its circulation to the Newberry area. This means 200 more subscribers with more to come. This is valuable additional coverage to Press advertisers.

Sharon Lee Bryson Is Bride Of David Rivard

Before the altar of St. Anne's Church, decorated with yellow and white gladioli and pompons, Miss Sharon Lee Bryson became the bride of David John Rivard. The double ring ceremony was performed at 11 a.m. today with Rev. Stephen Mayrand celebrating the nuptial high mass.

Parents of the bridal couple are Escanaba residents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bryson, 313 N. 11th St. and Mr. and Mrs. Clement Rivard, 1408 Lake Shore Dr.

Organza Gown
Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of pure silk organza and hand-clipped Chantilly lace. The lace bodice featured a scalloped neckline, embellished with seed pearls and sequins, and long tapered sleeves. The full, floor length skirt of silk organza was edged with lace and caught up in front with three tiny bows. In back, three large gathered tiers edged in lace cascaded to a full chapel train that will be bustled for the reception. Her queen's crown of pearls held a bouffant veil of silk illusion that fell to her shoulders. A pearl necklace and earrings were her only jewelry and a gift of the bridegroom. She carried a cascade bouquet of white feathered mums with trailing ivy.

Aides in Green
The bridal attendants, Mary Sue Bryson, a cousin of the bride, as maid of honor and Sally Anderson, bridesmaid, wore identical sheath dresses of sheer peppermint green over taffeta. The dresses had Sabrina necklines, elbow sleeves and detachable overskirts of matching fabric held with a bow at the waist back. Petal hats with veils and dyed to match shoes completed the ensemble. They wore a pearl necklace and earrings, a gift of the bride. Baskets of cascading yellow gladioli were carried.

Flower Girl
Debra Bryson, a sister of the bride was flower girl and wore a white floor length chiffon dress with an embossed top and wide cape collar. Her headpiece was a tiny organza flower with veiling and she carried a basket with one large gladiolus and trailing ivy. Michael Fuss, a nephew of the bridegroom was ring bearer. The bridegroom's brother, Ralph Rivard, was best man with Richard Bryson.

Exchange Golf
Eighteen ladies from the Manistique Golf Club were entertained in a return match with the Newberry group at the Country Club here Wednesday.

They played to a tie for the Tee-Bone trophy, that will remain here for this year. Two such matches are played annually. In bridge high scorer was Barbara Earle, while Joyce Foley was low.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wies of Detroit returned to their home Sunday after visiting at the home of the latter's sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Quentin Berry and father, Ben Myers.

Football Physicals
The Rock High School football team players will receive their physicals Thursday, Aug. 22, in Gladstone. The bus will leave from the school at 8:30 a. m. Equipment will be issued to returning players on Thursday from 1-3 p. m. and to new members after 3 p. m.

The first football practice will be held Monday, Aug. 26, at 6 p. m.

Bible School Opening Monday At Bethany Church

The Vacation Bible School at Bethany Lutheran Church, Escanaba opens Monday, Aug. 19, with the theme, "Traveling God's Highway."

The school will be held each morning from 9 to 11 with an opening assembly in the church parlors each morning, at which time the daily offering will be received. Children are asked to have pencils and their Bibles with them each day.

The VBS will continue through Thursday, Aug. 29 when a picnic will be held at Ludington Park for all children attending the school and their parents.

Children of the church and community are invited to attend.

Cosmetologists Attend Workshop

Philip L. George, 614 Ludington St., and Miss Joanne LaCrosse, 2008 Ludington St., both of Escanaba, were among a state-wide assemblage of cosmetologists who participated in a special workshop held at Ferris State College Aug. 10-13.

Co-sponsored by Ferris and the Michigan Cosmetologists Association, the workshop probed new trends and modern techniques in hair-styling and in beautyshop management.

The self-supporting workshop is one of the special summer events supplementing the regular fourth-quarter program at Ferris.

Mrs. Michael Gregoire (Lee's Studio)

Margaret Kroll Wed To Michael Gregoire Today

Father Norbert Freiburger solemnized the double ring service and celebrated the Nuptial High Mass at 11 a.m. today in St. Anthony's Church for Margaret Kroll and Michael Gregoire. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kroll of A St. Wells and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gregoire, 612 S. 19th St., Escanaba.

The wedding breakfast was served at the Sherman Hotel where the 4 to 8 p.m. reception will be held.

The bride's floor length gown was of silk taffeta with long pointed sleeves. Sprays of pearl trimmed Alencon lace detailed the bodice and bordered the Sabrina neckline. The chapel train fell from the shoulder. Her hat was a small pillbox of crystalet with seed pearls and embroidery trim, the front, covered with a flower of tiny white petals and crystallet balls. Her veil was shoulder length. She carried a bridal bouquet of white stephanotis centered with a white orchid and ivy foliage.

Identical street length gowns of turquoise silk organza over taffeta were worn by her attendants. They were styled with shallow scoop necklines, cap sleeves and fitted bodices, accented by controlled bouffant skirts created of tiny marquis cut-outs. Their forward headpieces were a single flower with French bouffant veiling. They carried cascade type bouquets of white carnations and pompons with tints of turquoise.

Marion Kroll of Milwaukee was maid of honor for her sister and bridesmaids were another sister, Mrs. John Laguna of Milwaukee and Mrs. Michael Mileski, Escanaba.

Little Patti Ann Gregoire, niece of the bridegroom, who was flower girl, was attired in a dress of white silk organza over taffeta with scoop neckline, short sleeves, draped bodice and bustle back. She wore a cluster of feathered carnations in her hair and she carried a single rose. Patrick McDough Jr. served as ring bearer. Mr. Gregoire's best man was his brother, Thomas, who came from Kingsport, Tenn., for the wedding. Groomsmen were Michael Venne and Clifford O'Donnell of Escanaba and the guests were seated by William McGovern of Milwaukee and William Goodreau.

White orchid corsages complemented the ensembles of both mothers. Mrs. Kroll wore a Dior blue crepe sheath with chiffon draped back and over skirt, and matching accessories. Mrs. Gregoire chose a two piece dress of nutmeg embroidered linen and aqua accessories.

White gladioli and pompons were arranged in the altar vases and the bouquet which the bride placed on the altar of the Blessed Virgin in a traditional ceremony was of white carnations and pompons.

Assisting at the reception will be Mrs. William McGovern who will serve punch, Mrs. William Goodreau, who will have the guest book, Mrs. Patrick McDough, who will cut the wedding cake and Mrs. Thomas Gregoire, who will preside at the coffee service. The centerpiece is turquoise and white gladioli and pompons.

Mr. Gregoire and his bride will reside at 600 Summit in Marquette following their honeymoon. Both are Holy Name High School graduates. The bride, who received her degree from Western Michigan University, is teaching in the Gwin Public Schools. Mr. Gregoire is completing his education at Northern Michigan University.

For going away the bride will wear a taupe and blue long sleeved sheath with matching sleeveless coat and accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Here for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kolb, Mr. and Mrs. John Kolb, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Dahl, Miss Judy Charland and Leo Gregoire, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Norby, Madison, Wis., Mr. and Mrs. James Schram, Iron Mountain and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gregoire and children of Kingsport.

The rehearsal dinner was given by the bridegroom's parents Friday evening at their home.

Mary Ann Viau And Richard C. Sharkey Wed

Tall vases holding gladioli and mums decorated the altar of Sacred Heart Church, Schaffer, for the wedding today of Mary Ann Viau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dona Viau, Bark River Rte. 2, and Richard C. Sharkey, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Sharkey of Nadeau.

Father John N. Arnett performed the double ring ceremony and celebrated the Nuptial High Mass at 10 a. m. During the Offertory, as the bride placed a bouquet of white carnations and pompons on the altar of the Blessed Virgin, her uncle, George DeLoughery, sang "On This Day O Beautiful Mother."

A breakfast for the wedding party and immediate families was served at Potvin's Fireside Room and the reception from 4 to 8 for 400 guests at Nadeau Hall will be followed by a wedding dance.

Bridal Party
Maid of honor was Janet Gattien of Escanaba and bridesmaids were sisters-in-law of the bride, Mrs. Kenneth Viau and Mrs. Donald Viau. Mr. Sharkey's best man was William Viau, groomsmen were Kenneth and Donald Viau and the guests were seated by Charles Sherman of Iron Mountain and Lenord Bower.

The bride's all-lace gown was fashioned with a fitted bodice, long tapered sleeves, sequin-trimmed Sabrina neckline, and tiered sequin trimmed bouffant skirt, extending into a chapel train which formed a bustle. Her jewelry was miniature cultured pearls. A crown of pearlized orange blossoms held her elbow length veil of pure silk imported English illusion. She carried a cascade of white feathered carnations and red garnet roses with ivy foliage.

Rookie Of Year Race Wide Open; Two Hit Homers

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Yankees, with another American League pennant just about wrapped up, have focused interest on a race that's still wide open—the battle for Rookie of the Year honors between Chicago's Pete Ward and Minnesota's Jimmie Hall.

Ward hit his 16th homer Friday night, but the White Sox fell 4-2 before the Yankees, who broke loose in the ninth on homers by Tom Tresh, Hector Lopez and Clete Boyer after being shut out on four hits for eight innings by Juan Pizarro.

Hall belted his 21st homer and a double while driving in three runs in a 7-5 triumph over Washington that moved the Twins past the White Sox into second place nine games back of the Yankees. The White Sox are 9½ behind.

Ward, a 23-year-old left-handed swinger, is hitting .279 with 64 runs batted in and was the front-runner until August.

Since then Hall, a 25-year-old who also bats left, has been streaking. In his last 15 games, he has hit at a .356 clip with eight homers and 22 runs driven in, lifting his average 20 points to .261 and bringing his RBI total to 58.

Baltimore edged Kansas City 4-3 behind Stu Miller's sharp relief pitching, Boston used homers by Carl Yastrzemski, Lu Clinton and Roman Mejias to forge a 7-4 decision over Cleveland and the Los Angeles Angels handed Phil Regan his first defeat in two months by downing Detroit 9-6.

Mets Prove Best At Blowing Lead

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers gave every indication of trying to out-Met the Mets Friday night and the Yankees wouldn't stand for it.

This business of blowing games, after all, is a Met specialty. So they carefully waited until the top of the ninth to blow a 7-6 lead, helping Los Angeles to three runs, then calmly rolling over in their half of the ninth.

That saddled the Dodgers with a 9-7 victory they had done their best to give away and allowed them to stretch their National League lead to four games over second-place San Francisco, 13-0 victims at St. Louis. The third-place Cardinals trail the Giants by one game.

Philadelphia blanked Pittsburgh

3-0, Milwaukee rallied 3-2 against Houston and Chicago and Cincinnati split a two-night doubleheader, the Cubs romping 10-1 before the Reds took the second 8-2.

In the American League, the leading New York Yankees crashed three ninth-inning homers and beat Chicago 4-2. Minnesota took over second place with a 7-5 verdict over Washington, Baltimore edged Kansas City 4-3, Boston beat Cleveland 7-4 and Los Angeles topped Detroit 9-6.

The Dodgers blew leads of 1-0, 3-1 and 6-4 and held down their own scoring by some uncertain base-running before the Mets helped them out in the ninth.

Willie Davis started it with a scratch single, was sacrificed to second and took third on a passed ball. Maury Wills looped a little single to left to score him and Wills scampered to third on Jim Gilliam's single to left.

Wally Moon tapped to Duke Carmel at first, Carmel froze with the ball and the bases were loaded. The tie-breaking run Hickman's throwing error and a sacrifice fly drove in another.

The Mets had gone ahead with three runs in the fifth, centered around Duke Sniders two-run single, preceded by two infield singles a hit batsman and Tommy Davis error on a potential double play grounder.

Ron Perranoski gained credit for his 13th victory against two losses.

The Cardinals pounded 18 hits in the rout of the Giants with Bill White and George Altman each riving in three runs. Giant right-hander Jim Duffalo's pitching hand split by Curt Flood's single was tagged with the loss. Giant rookie Jim Hart was taken to a hospital for x-rays after he was knocked unconscious by Curt Simmons fast ball the second time he's been beamed.

Michigan Team Wins Third Spot

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — First baseman Ed Raucher blasted a bases-loaded home run in the seventh inning Friday night to power Clintondale, Mich., to a 7-3 victory over Painesville, Ohio, and third place in the Northern Region Little League baseball tournament.

The Rebels led 3-0 until Painesville's Scott Moser hit a three-run homer in the fifth.

Back-to-back singles by Joe Nashing, Ed D'Onofri and Wayne Ramsey loaded the bases prior to Raucher's big homer.

The Tigers will use Jim Bunning (8-12) today against Mike Lee (0-0). A victory still would leave the Tigers two percentage points behind the Angels.

Ironwood's Team Wins Top Honors In Rifle Tourney

Ironwood's ROTC shooters captured team honors in the annual Upper Peninsula Junior Rifle tournament held at the State Fair Friday, compiling an 882 score.

In addition, Ironwood's Dave Kuklenski topped all individual shooters in Class A with a 185 total, edging Charles Nemetz of Menominee High School by a single point.

Besmer ROTC placed second in the Class A team rating with an 863 score and Menominee was third with 835.

The top individual girl shooter in Class A was Shirley Morgan of the Houghton Junior Rifle Club with 166. Following were Jeanne Smallwood of Houghton with 158, Bonnie Ray Meyers of Bark River with 125 and Suzanne DeBen of Bark River with 97.

In Class B, Menominee County 4-H Club swept the first three places and all the individual honors. The winning team had a 791 total, second place was 765 and third 375.

Dennis Bowers was the top individual shooter in Class B with a 179 score and Mildred Thoney led the girls with 151.

Members of the winning team were Bowers, Roger Sager, Gloria Sager, Scott Gay and Eldon Bowers. On the team finishing second were Mildred Thoney, Robert Walcott, Gary Chaney, Bill DeMille and Kathy Mulheron. Members of the third team were Marvin Sager, Curtis Gay, Dick Palmer, Bob Palmer and Jerry Mulheron.

The Class A boys who finished behind Kuklenski in the individual shooting were Nemetz, Gerald Jones of Menominee, Roger Jensen of Marquette and James Poplano of Ironwood.

Boating Control Progress Made

Resulting from legislation enacted last year to cope with mounting boating problems in Michigan, a Boating Control Committee was organized on Aug. 1, 1962. The Committee is composed of representatives from the three State Agencies closely associated with recreational boating.

By law, the Committee has broad powers in the regulation of boats and associated recreational uses of all waters in Michigan. When called upon by a local unit of government, this group holds a public hearing to air the complaints of waterfront residents and those who use the area's waters for various recreation pursuits.

After the hearing and an investigation of the particular "hot spots", the Committee makes its recommendations known to the political subdivision. If special controls are prescribed, the local government may then enact ordinances in accordance with the recommendations.

A good job of enforcing the basic State boating laws will often substantially reduce or eliminate the problems reported, without resort to extra local regulations or controls. These funds come from motorboat registration monies which are ear-marked for marine law enforcement and water safety education.

The prime complaint heard is interference with fishermen by water skiers and fast motorboats. Fishermen, long the major user of Michigan's lakes and rivers, do not look too favorably on the fast new motorboats nor on the rapidly growing sport of water skiing. Tempers quite often flare and the result is a demand for rigid restrictions on the use of high powered boats.

All too often these demands result from a lack of willingness to share the waters by all the various recreational water users. Michigan boaters have innumerable waters upon which to fish and ski and hunt and cruise. However, more boats and more people use these game waters every year. So, it's apparent that all must share these lakes and rivers of ours, either voluntarily or through special regulations.

Control of private buoys and beacons, and the control of regattas and other marine events on Michigan waters also come under this group's responsibility.

Persons who wish to hold organized boat races, regattas or other marine events must obtain a permit from the Committee prior to holding the event. Applications, by law, must be submitted 20 days prior to the date of the race or regatta. Permits are granted in most instances; however, the Boating Control Committee must be assured that the event will be conducted safely and without undue interference to other water users and be publicized in the local area at least one week prior to the holding of the event.

Hay Fever Misnamed, But Virulent Misery

"Hay fever is neither caused by hay nor is it associated with fever," says Dr. Mary L. Cretens of the Delta-Menominee Department of Health. But the 10,000,000 Americans who suffer from it know the misery of stuffed running noses, watery inflamed eyes, sneezing, wheezing and general discomfort.

Although a large percentage of the cases are mild, many suffer intensely with considerable loss of time from work or school and often almost complete invalidism. About one-third of those allergic to ragweed may develop asthma.

Hay fever can be caused by trees, grasses, molds, weeds and even disintegrated insects' bodies, among other offenders. But the greatest sinner is the ragweed. In only 5 hours one ragweed plant

Teachers from the Delta County area attending the Teachers' Conservation Scholarship School at Camp Shaw Aug. 4-10 were, from left: Don Richards, education consultant with the Department of Conservation in Lansing and a native of Wells, and Henry Wylie, Escanaba; Sister M. Teresita, Holy Family College, Manitowish, Wis.; Sister Rose Clare, Escanaba Holy Name High School; Pronase Goyernack, Escanaba; Hilla Karppinen, Escanaba; and Leona Erickson, Escanaba.

Teachers Told Worst Habitat Destroyer Is Man

They collected marine specimens, chased butterflies and discussed timber management in terms that impressed timbermen. And when 59 school teachers went home Aug. 10 from their Upper Peninsula Conservation Scholarship School, they took information and enthusiasm that will inspire thousands of children throughout Michigan to develop a greater appreciation for natural resources.

As dedicated as any birdwatcher or garden clubber, the conservation teachers are convinced that the best way to assure proper management of natural resources is to educate children. And the recent history of teachers' conservation workshops in Michigan would indicate they mean business.

There were four held downstate and one in the U.P. this year. Michigan Conservation Department Education Consultant Rod Smith of Marquette predicts there will be five in Lower Michigan and two in the U.P. next year.

The U.P. school was headquartered at Michigan State University's Camp Shaw near Chatham and the Conservation Department used many natural and educational resources in the six-day program.

In addition to Conservation Department specialists, resource people were provided by Northern Michigan University, Eastern Michigan University, the University of Michigan, the State Department of Public Instruction, the U.S. Lake States Forest Experiment Station, Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co., and the Escanaba Daily Press.

Scholarships covering the camp costs were provided for most of the teachers by local clubs, PTAs, boards of education, business and industry, and individuals. Approximately half of the 59 attending last week's school were from each of the Michigan Peninsulas.

Many of the teachers paid an extra fee to earn credit at NMU or EMU.

Daytime field trips ranged from a tour to study stream management on Alger County's Slapneck Creek to an all-day jaunt to observe CCI's multiple use timberland management on Grand Island.

Evening programs varied from formal discussions on conservation teaching aids to informal debates on the degree of professionalism and dedication of the school teacher. But all the "student" teachers agreed with retired U. of M. lecturer O. H. Clark of Ann Arbor when he summed up the challenge by stating that, "Man is the world's worst destroyer of his own habitat."

Clark of Ann Arbor when he summed up the challenge by stating that, "Man is the world's worst destroyer of his own habitat."

Of the four species of ragweed, three grow knee high, but the fourth—giant ragweed—reaches head high. For some unknown reason, the giant ragweed's scientific name is Ambrosia trifida. Ambrosia, of course, means "pleasing to taste or smell." Any hay fever sufferer would violently disagree with the botanist who pinned this label on it.

It may seem strange, but the ragweed pollination season begins earlier in the north than in the south. In parts of Canada ragweed starts pollinating in the latter part of July, whereas in Southern Texas it begins about the middle of September. This is because pollination occurs as the amount of sunlight becomes less. Thus the farther south the plants are, the later their pollination starts.

Why some of us become allergic to tree pollen, others to ragweed, peanuts, molds or insects remains a mystery. But it is known that the allergic tendency is inherited. Mild seasonal attacks can usually be treated effectively with simple medications prescribed by your doctor. More severe or persistent cases may require skin tests and desensitization against the offending substances, which differ from person to person. If asthma or other complications occur, still other methods of treatment will be required. Your doctor can determine which treatment is best for the individual case.

There are also a number of personal measures one can take to avoid or ease the distressing symptoms. Try to keep doors and windows closed as much as possible during the susceptible period. Central air conditioning with filtration, although expensive, can provide gratifying relief. If this is not practical, a window unit in the bedroom can help toward a good night's sleep and leave one better able to withstand the sneezes of the next day. Obviously, a sensitive person should not take walks through fields or woodland.

The sensitive person can plan his vacation for the period during which he is usually afflicted. A trip of only a hundred miles away to a place free from the specific pollen that affects you can let you breathe freely again.

The United States uses the Pacific range to launch satellites into polar orbit—a route which crosses the Soviet Union.

A space agency spokesman would say only that it will detail functions of an earlier agreement between Hugh Dryden, space agency deputy administrator, and A. L. Blagonar, head of the Soviet Academy of Sciences.

The speculation stems partly from announcement Monday that NASA has let a contract for three more Echo space communications launched from the Pacific missile range this winter.

Longer Shooting Season Favored

LANSING (AP) — Hunters of duck and geese may be able to shoot longer days and take more birds this Fall.

Conservation Commission Director Gerald Eddy has sent telegrams to commission members urging approval of more liberal limits.

The season would be extended because the birds had an excellent nesting season and produced a good crop of birds in their spring mating session in Canada this Spring.

The commission is following recommendations of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

It was recommended the duck and goose shooting season open on noon, Oct. 5. The duck season would be extended to 35 days compared to 25 days last year and the goose season to 70 days against 60 days last year.

The department recommendation is for a doubling of the daily duck limit from two to four a day in possession last year, up to four a day and eight in possession.

The daily and possession limit on geese would remain at five.

This will include not more than two Canadian geese or sub-species or two white-fronted geese or two Canadian geese or a combination of one of each.

The department also is going along with the national recommendation that there be no shooting of canvassbacks or redhead ducks.

U.S. And Russia To Join In New Space Venture

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Aeronautics and Space Administration is reported ready to announce a joint U.S.-Soviet space venture—perhaps an Echo space balloon to bounce messages across the Iron Curtain.

The speculation stems partly from announcement Monday that NASA has let a contract for three more Echo space communications launched from the Pacific missile range this winter.

Rain, Cold Plague Fair; Clear Skies Promised Sunday

The U. P. State Fair, plagued by occasional cold rains and chill winds from the north, hopes to come into sunshine and warmth of summertime again on Sunday.

That's the promise of the weatherman, who predicts that the winds will diminish tonight, that Sunday will warm up as the day advances and that the skies will be clear and sunny. Since the Fair opened on Tuesday the weather has been unseasonably cold.

Last night's chill was so for-

Julius Tonguay Of Cooks Dies

MANISTIQUE—Julius Tonguay, 80, of Cooks died in Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital at 9:10 p.m. Friday. He had been a patient for three months.

Mr. Tonguay was born in Alpena July 7, 1883 and had resided in Cooks since 1908. He married Maude Walters in Manistique June 25, 1908. He was a member of St. Mary's Church at Cooks and his occupation was farming.

Surviving are four sons, Lawrence and Clarence of Cooks, Richard of Flint and Edward of Fayette; two daughters, Mrs. Gladys Roberts of Cooks, Mrs. Joseph (Violet) Plante of Junction City, Mich.; a brother, John Tonguay of Cooks, a sister, Mrs. John (Rose) Cole of Kalamazoo, 24 grandchildren and 21 great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted Monday at 10 a.m. in St. Mary's Church and burial will be in the Cooks Cemetery. The Rosary will be recited Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Messier-Broulliere Funeral Home. Friends may call at the funeral home after 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Rural Mishaps Top Death Toll

DETROIT (AP)—The Automobile Club of Michigan has told Gov. George Romney that the state's soaring traffic death toll is due primarily to rural accidents.

At the same time, the Auto Club's General Manager, Fred N. Rehm, recommended to Romney that traffic and motor vehicle law problems be placed before the 1964 Legislature instead of being out on the agenda at next month's special legislative session.

Citing a 17 per cent increase in rural traffic fatalities, Rehm said "hasty legislative action" would not necessarily result in an immediate solution.

"A careful study should be made of Michigan speed limits on rural and secondary roads where most of the accidents occur," Rehm said in a letter to the Governor.

Noting that most of Michigan's fatality increase was shared by seven counties, Rehm said one major factor "is development of new communities from raw rural land outside large cities."

"Most lack traffic engineering, police patrolling, and many other proved traffic necessities," he said.

Rehm gave this seven-county breakdown of the higher death toll, which showed an increase of 101 over the first six months of 1962:

Genesee County, 32 more fatalities, or a 153 per cent increase over last year's first half; Oakland, 23 more deaths, up 46 per cent; Calhoun County, 11, more fatal accidents, or 183 per cent increase; Bay County, 10 more deaths, up 143 per cent; Saginaw, 10 more, a 71 per cent increase; Ingham, seven more, up 70 per cent; Ottawa, seven more, a 77 per cent increase.

Rehm said 508 persons were killed in rural traffic and 252 others died in city accidents. Rural mishaps increased 17 per cent, he said, while urban fatalities went up 12 per cent.

"On rural roads," he said, single car, run-off-roadway, "hit fixed object" type accidents, once a relatively small factor in the traffic pattern, are increasing steadily. Today they are second only to two-car collisions as the biggest cause of deaths and injuries on rural roads."

Easterners Buy Detroit Building

DETROIT (AP)—An Eastern investment firm has bought the 25-story First National Building for an undisclosed sum.

The downtown building, which carried a $6 million price tag when it changed hands in 1946, has 1,643 tenants and 600,000 square feet of floor space.

The buyer is the National Office Building Corp. A spokesman, Theodore W. Berenson, of Boston, said the firm has taken out an $8 million mortgage.

bidding that only three persons indicated a willingness to enter the grandstand for the night show, said Ray LaPorte, Fair secretary-manager. The show, the Val Campbell Revue, was cancelled.

Ray Price and the Cherokee Ranch Boys, plus variety acts, are scheduled for tonight's grandstand show at 8:15.

Sunday's program will offer an afternoon of stock car races beginning at 1 p. m., followed by the 8:15 grandstand show with Miss Brenda Lee, Bobby Beckam and The Casuals.

Given any sort of break in the weather this weekend and the Fair could still come out equal to or above last year on the basis of receipts and attendance, said LaPorte. Entrance to the Fairgrounds is free but there is a fee for parking. Parking revenue is off slightly.

Midway receipts are below last year by some $8,500. Attendance at night grandstand shows is down.

"But give us a break in the weather today and tomorrow and we will not compare too badly with a year ago," LaPorte said.

Man To Control Next Space Trip

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP)—Man, not the machine, will be the controlling factor on future flights by U.S. astronauts, the flight director on all six Project Mercury manned missions said Friday.

Chris Kraft, flight operations director for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Manned Spacecraft Center, told a satellite conference the United States is moving confidently ahead with the Gemini and Apollo manned programs because Mercury proved that man can perform effectively in space.

"When we started the manned space flight program five years ago," Kraft said, "there was a great deal of doubt about man's usefulness in space. We now have come to the point which is exactly 180 degrees around the circle from that opinion. We now depend on man to back up the automatic systems rather than using the automatic systems alone."

He said in the future there will be a blending of pilot and automatic systems.

"By experience we have arrived at what we think is a proper mixture," Kraft said. "Man is the deciding element."

He cited the action of astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., Malcolm Scott Carpenter, Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr. in overcoming problems that cropped up during their flights. Three of them had to exercise manual control during the critical re-entry maneuver.

Mercury ended with Cooper's 22-orbit trip last May. Next up is Project Gemini which will send two men into orbit in the same capsule. The first flight is scheduled in about 14 months.

School Millage Boost Rejected In Traverse City

TRAVERSE CITY (AP)—Threatened cutbacks in school operations has failed to change voters' minds. They again rejected a millage increase.

By a vote of 2,237 to 1,739, voters in the Traverse City school district turned down a proposed hike of 4.1 mills for three years for school operations.

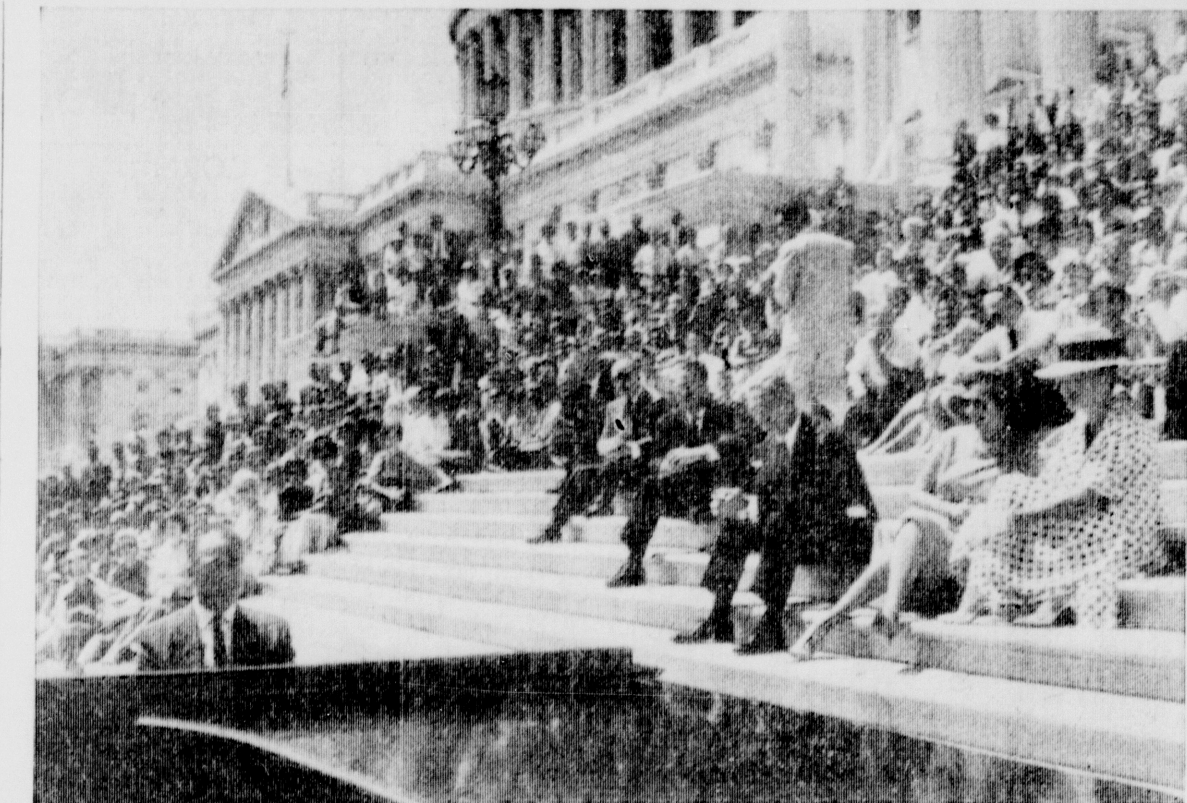

After a similar referendum defeat June 10, the board of education said it would be forced to drop bus service throughout the district and suspend inter-scholastic athletics. The board also announced it would not hire a music and art teacher and would curtail teacher travel.

State Briefs

DETROIT (AP)—A Detroit River drowning victim Friday was identified as Harvin Leet, 26, of Detroit. Police said his body became snagged in a screen at the Ford Motor Co. powerhouse water intake. Officers said Leet presumably drowned while swimming.

DETROIT (AP)—Convicted of driving a getaway car in a $2,850 robbery, James William Allen, 26, of Detroit, Friday was sentenced to four years in federal prison. The holdup occurred May 16 at the Federal Credit Union in Hamtramck. Two other men previously drew 10-year sentences for their part in the robbery.

ALPENA (AP)—The Rev. Albert Marsh, new pastor of the Alpena Free Methodist Church who was to preach his first sermon here Sunday, died Friday after suffering a stroke at the parsonage. He was 41. The Rev. Mr. Marsh was pastor eight years at Flint Fairhaven Free Methodist Church before coming to Alpena Tuesday.

Visitors to the nation's Capitol building got an extra attraction Aug. 15, a bit of music and wit by pianist Victor Borge. Several Congressmen are among the listeners sitting on the Capitol steps. (AP Wirephoto)

John Stankovich Dies Suddenly

MANISTIQUE — John Stankovich, 63, of Hiawatha Township, died suddenly at 3 a.m. today in the Veterans Hospital at Wood, Wis.

He was born in Lithuanian Nov. 1, 1894 and had spent most of his life in the Manistique area, coming here in 1914.

He was married to Irene Tenenyon in Manistique in 1917 and during World War I served with the 84th Division in France. He was a member of the VFW and the DAV and his work here was as a logger.

His wife died in 1953.

He leaves one son, Harley, of Manistique; several sisters and brothers in Europe, 11 grandchildren and 9 great grandchildren.

Services will be conducted Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the Messier-Broulliere Funeral Home. The Rev. David van Gorkum will officiate and burial will be in Hiawatha Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home after 4 p.m. Monday.

Healthy Sisters Share Kidneys

WELLSTON, Okla. (AP)—Seven years and two children ago, Edith Helm was given a kidney from her twin sister.

Today she's a happy, healthy, housewife, hoping to have another baby, even though her doctors once doubted she could have children safely.

The sister who donated one of her kidneys, Wanda Foster, has three sons — and would like to have a daughter.

The sisters made medical history just by living normal lives.

Mrs. Helm, the first woman to receive a kidney transplant, was the third human being on which the operation was tried. She goes back every two years or so to Peter Bent Brigham hospital in Boston, where surgeons who pioneered kidney transplants performed the operations which saved her life.

Mrs. Helm was 20, recently married and living in Sand Springs, near Tulsa, when doctors discovered she had glomerulonephritis, an incurable kidney disease. When both kidneys fail, death follows.

Mrs. Foster, also recently married, didn't hesitate when the remote chance of a kidney transplant was held out.

One of Mrs. Foster's healthy kidneys was transplanted into Mrs. Helm's body May 24, 1956. Later that year, the diseased kidneys were removed.

Since then, both sisters have been in perfect health.

Mrs. Helm, recalling the experience for the Tulsa Tribune, said doctors questioned whether she would ever be able to have children safely.

That question was settled March 10, 1958, by the birth of a son, John, in the Boston hospital. On Aug. 10, 1960, a daughter, Vicki, arrived in a hospital in Cushing. Both were delivered by Cesarean section.

Mrs. Foster's sons, Mike, 5, Bill, 4, and Jeff, 3, all have been born since the transplant.

Mrs. Helm and her husband live on a small dairy farm at Wellston, not far from Oklahoma City. Mrs. Foster and her husband live in Davenport, about 20 miles to the east.

Catholic Diocese Head Dies At Soo

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (AP)—The Rt. Rev. T. J. Crowley, 87, vicar-general of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Sault Ste. Marie and a priest for more than 60 years, died in a hospital here Friday after an illness.

Mrs. Crowley, priest of the Precious Blood Parish since 1920, became vicar-general in May, 1961. He was born near Peterborough, Ont., in 1876.

Ann Arbor Sale To DT&I Okayed

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The Interstate Commerce Commission, dismissing union objections, has ordered acquisition of the Ann Arbor road by the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railroad.

Among the results will be improved car ferry service from Frankfort, Mich., to Manistowic and Keweenaw, Wis., and Menominee, Mich. The action also raises the hope of obtaining a long sought stop at Sturgeon Bay by the Frankfort-Menominee ferry.

The ICC order is effective Aug. 29, but a spokesman for the D. T. & I. in Dearborn, Mich., said formal action probably would be delayed until the next board meeting of the Ann Arbor on Sept. 19.

The Railway Labor Executives Association and rail unions had protested the acquisition on the ground that some 44 workers and other railroads might be affected. The ICC rejected these contentions.

The D. T. & I. will pay about $3 million for the Ann Arbor, which operates from Ironton, Ohio, on the Ohio River, to Frankfort, on Lake Michigan directly across from Sturgeon Bay. The Ann Arbor operates car ferries across the lake to Manistowic, Mich., as well as to Menominee, Keweenaw and Manitowic.

Officials of the D. T. & I. have promised to spend an additional $3 million to upgrade the Ann Arbor's car ferry service, buy new diesel locomotives and add new freight cars. One ferry already has been refurbished and 100 new cushion frame boxcars are in service for the Fox River valley paper trade.

Car ferry service across the lake will be put on a regular daily basis, but there has been no decision made on stopping the ferries at Sturgeon Bay, a D. T. & I. spokesman said.

Sturgeon Bay and Door County officials long have sought a ferry stop there to improve freight interchange schedules, but the Ann Arbor consistently refused. There has been talk of Sturgeon Bay seeking federal aid for a terminal if the D. T. & I. agrees to stop.

Both the D. T. & I. and the Ann Arbor are controlled by the giant Pennsylvania System. The ICC noted that the Ann Arbor's "immediate parent," the Wabash, had let the Ann Arbor "slip while concentrating on its own traffic through Chicago and St. Louis. Control by the D. T. & I. would bolster both lines, arrest the decline in Ann Arbor revenues and employment and provide a "logical extension" of the D. T. & I., the ICC believes.

Although Hart has not announced whether he would take the post, those close to him say he would accept it and when it is offered to him by Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Eastland, one of the Senate's most conservative members, could appoint himself to succeed Kefauver as chairman of the antitrust and monopoly subcommittee, and keep Hart, who rates himself a liberal, out of that job. This maneuver, however, is not considered likely.

The eight-man subcommittee under Kefauver had some bitter fights between its conservative and liberal members on economic matters and often divided 4 to 4.

If Hart takes the chairmanship, however, he will have an even tougher chore than Kefauver had to win the group's approval of legislation dealing with trusts and monopolies in the nation's business.

Hart and Kefauver were very close in their views on the subcommittee and never cast opposition votes on major issues.

Hart, if he takes the chairmanship, likely would carry out the same general aims as Kefauver had. And he would press for "consumer protection" steps such as packaging" bill. Kefauver was suspicious of "bigness" in business.

Cobo Hall To Get Big Church Rally

DETROIT (AP)—The International Convention of Christian Churches will hold its 1963 convention in Detroit's Cobo Hall. The convention—annual meeting of the 1.8 million Disciples of Christ in this country—is expected to attract at least 12,000 visitors.

Funeral services will be conducted Monday at 8 a.m. in St. Francis de Sales Church with burial in Lakeview Cemetery. Friends may call at the Messier-Broulliere Funeral Home after 1 p.m. Sunday. The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Sunday at the funeral home.

Complete Judging Of Sheep; Wellman, Arvey Are Winners

Mrs. Marian Arvey of Brampton walked off with nine first place awards for her entries in the registered Shropshire, during judging of sheep at the U. P. State Fair Grounds this week.

Mrs. Arvey had the Grand Champion Ram and Ewe included in the nine awards.

A new exhibitor this year, Leon Wellman of Bark River, won a first place award for both his purebred Hampshire Ram and flock of grade Hampshires. He also won first place award for a horned Dorset.

Freeway Handles More Cars Than There Are In U.S.

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit's Ford-Lodge freeway exchange handled more passenger cars, trucks and buses last year than are registered in the entire United States, the Highway Department reports.

The department said an estimated 107 million vehicles drove through the three-level exchange linking the two expressways last year. There are an estimated 79 million passenger cars, trucks and buses registered in the country.

NOT TAKEN FAR

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Glen Hayes was upset when a burglar stole a shotgun, jewelry and electric shaver from his home in Christian County.

Then he got an anonymous phone call telling him the stolen items were under a road sign near the Hayes home.

Hayes hurried out and recovered every item.

Cuba Becoming Shoeless Nation

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Cuba is becoming a shoeless nation," a woman refugee who escaped Fidel Castro kidnappers said today.

"Shoes are getting scarcer all the time and thousands in Cuba are barefoot, especially children," Mrs. Olga de Hernandez reported.

Several members of her party, including her three children, wore shoes for the first time in months. Her son, Roegelio, celebrated his 12th birthday today with shoes.

Havana butchers Domingo Gonzalez and Gabriel Bolanos looked uncomfortable but natty in sporty brown oxfords to which they were unaccustomed.

Hide Behind Bushes

They were outfitted with the shoes after visiting the Cuban refugee center along with members of the party of 10 that eluded Castro gunboats earlier this week on British-owned Anguilla Cay. They had landed there after fleeing their countries.

Bolanos grinned as his Zapatos

Lawmen To Attend Ironwood Meeting On Traffic Safety

Sheriff C. A. (Cully) Johnson, Deputy Jack Peltier and Police Chief Harold Finnman will leave Sunday for Ironwood where they will attend the annual Governor's Regional Traffic Safety Conference on Monday.

The one-day meeting will be held at the St. James Hotel and is sponsored by the Michigan Citizens Highway Safety Action Committee and the Michigan State Safety Commission.

Under discussion will be a 15-point report on traffic emergency, driver's licensing, law enforcement, driver education and vehicle inspection.

Schaffer Woman Is Ticketed For Two-Car Mishap

Florence Schermer, 19, of Schaffer, was ticketed by sheriff's officers for failure to yield the right-of-way, following an accident at 4:30 p. m. Friday on M-69 at Schaffer.

According to officers, Mrs. Schermer backed from a driveway into the path of an oncoming car driven by Edward H. Perren, 39, of Rte. 1, Escanaba. Damage to both cars was estimated at $600.

Girl Maps Homes Of Astronauts, Gets In Trouble

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Thirty-one home-made maps of nearby Taylor Lake Village, at 10 cents each, brought 11-year-old Cathleen Wakeland a profit of $3.10 after she discovered that sightseers will pay for maps showing the homes of the nation's astronauts.

But they also got her in trouble with the law, represented by City Marshal A. A. (Red) Lancon. Lancon put a stop to the sale. He said he did it to protect the privacy of the astronauts.

Cathleen, undaunted, is making a new batch of the maps, with the full backing of her mother, Mrs. W. R. Wakeland.

Mrs. Wakeland said few sightseers try to intrude on the astronauts.

"Most of them just want to go by and see the houses and maybe take a few pictures," she said.

Cathleen said sightseers spend more time in the area when they have to hunt for the homes of the astronauts than they do when guided by her maps.
